Elibank Scored For Criticisms In New Zealand

Britisher Who Is President of Federation of Chambers of Commerce of Empire Under Attack Following Suggestion of Delay on Industrial Efficiency Bill

Argument In Canada Recalled

Canadian Press Cable via Reuters

Wellington, N.Z., Oct. 16.—Criticism by Viscount Elibank of New Zealand's Industrial Efficiency Bill raised a storm in government circles here today.

Viscount Elibank, president of the Federation of Chambers of Commerce of the British Empire, "on behalf of British financial interests," yesterday publicly appealed to the government not to enact the bill until Finance Minister Walter Nash, en route to London, ascertained the views of the British government. Lord Elibank added the bill would have a discouraging effect on investment of British capital in New Zealand.

NOT TAKING INSTRUCTIONS

Hon. D. G. Sullivan, Minister of Industry, today talked of "interference," while Prime Minister Michael Savage declared: "We are not going to take instructions from people abroad."

A number of speakers in the House of Representatives also expressed resentment at Lord Elibank's remarks.

The Industrial Efficiency Bill, which aims at co-operation of the state and industry, provides for establishment of an advisory bureau for industry and licensing of industries where considered advisable.

Viscount Elibank, criticized in New Zealand government circles today for his opposition to that Dominion's Industrial Efficiency Bill, drew censure from Canadian government sources last August for comment on defence policies.

Today's declaration by D. G. Sullivan, New Zealand Minister of Industry, that "we are not going to take instructions from people abroad," parallels the statement of Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Canadian Minister of Defence. Following a speech of Lord Elibank's in Toronto, Mr. Mackenzie said:

"We are Canadians here and we don't want any peregrinating imperialists to dictate our defence policies."

Not Guilty Of Manslaughter

Herbert Osgood Acquitted By Assize Jury

Herbert N. Osgood was today acquitted of the charge of manslaughter laid against him as the result of the fatal car accident on Esquimalt Road on September 5. The Assize Court jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" after fifty-five minutes deliberation.

The verdict terminated a three-day trial, taken up for the most part with the submission of evidence for the Crown.

With the exception of cross-examination of Crown witnesses, the defence, conducted by W. H. Davey, called for no testimony.

In his direction to the jury, Chief Justice Morrison emphasized the definition of manslaughter. It was not sufficient to consider evidence, which would make the accused liable in a civil suit, or enough strength to merit a verdict of guilt in the criminal case, he said.

Yesterday afternoon M. B. Jackson, K.C., conducting the case for the Crown, addressed the jury and was followed by Mr. Davey.

LENGTHY B.C. CASE ENDED AT OTTAWA

Supreme Court of Canada Hears Attorney-General Sloan Argue Against Interference With Conviction of Indian Brothers for Murder of Constable F. H. Gisbourne; Judgment Reserved; Case of Indians Was Presented by Stuart Henderson

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—The Supreme Court of Canada today reserved judgment on the appeal of Eneas, Alex and Richardson George from murder convictions and proceeded to hear the appeal of Vivian MacMillan in her action for damages against John Brownlee, former Premier of Alberta.

The George brothers, Indians of the Nooaitch Reserve, British Columbia, were found guilty of the murder of Dominion Constable F. H. Gisbourne and their appeal came to the Supreme Court after long legal battles in the courts of British Columbia.

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—Hon. Gordon Sloan, Attorney-General of British Columbia, today continued the argument for the Crown in the appeal before the Supreme Court of Canada of Eneas, Richardson and Alex George from murder convictions. The three Indian brothers were found guilty of slaying Dominion Constable F. H. Gisbourne in May, 1934.

The court, when Mr. Sloan began yesterday, asked him to confine his argument to the defence allegation of misdirection of the jury by the trial judge, and to ignore the defence claim that the finding of the jury was perverse.

The argument, one of the longest on criminal appeal in recent years, was expected to end today. It began last Friday and continued through Tuesday, Wednesday and yesterday with Stuart Henderson of Victoria, counsel for the George brothers, attacking the conviction.

Mr. Sloan yesterday said much of Mr. Henderson's case was based on the testimony of a discredited witness, Joseph Edwards, who gave evidence for the Crown at the preliminary hearing and at the first trial and then repudiated this evidence at the second trial, telling an entirely different story.

In his arguments presented prior to today, Mr. Henderson claimed the abrupt manner in which the arrest was attempted would have caused resistance by anybody.

PARISIANS SEE BIG "AIR RAID"

Associated Press

Paris, Oct. 16.—Parisians received notice today to prepare for an imaginary air attack tonight.

At 9.30 o'clock the city will be darkened and normal activity suspended for one hour when a fleet of French bombers soaring overhead would play the role of an invading enemy squadron.

The "enemy" will be "sighted" at 9.20 and an alarm transmitted over all emergency signal services. Seventy sirens will shriek a warning in an effort to have all lights visible from the sky extinguished and all traffic halted in ten minutes.

Police, firemen and Red Cross and other rescue squads—all wearing gas masks—have been instructed to operate as if in an actual air raid.

Special types of street lights, invisible from the air, will be tested in some sections of the capital.

Port Alberni, Oct. 16.—"Bobby" Hamilton, nineteen-year-old Alberni logger, died in hospital here last night as the result of terrible injuries sustained in a logging accident yesterday on the McCoy Lake Road, two miles west of Alberni.

Hamilton was helping to move a heavy gasoline donkey loaded on a truck when the road caved in and the falling donkey pinned him to the ground.

It took rescue workers an hour and a half with shovels to dig the youth free, during which time he was conscious and talked cheerfully.

On being rushed to the hospital he was found to have suffered a broken pelvis, two broken legs and internal injuries, from which he succumbed at 6 o'clock last night.

An inquest will be held Saturday.

Besides his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gareth Hamilton of Alberni, he is survived by three brothers and two sisters at home, and a third sister on the prairies.

Vancouver Police Also Seek Woman Who Telephoned Before Chinese Killed

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 16.—Police departments of Vancouver and surrounding districts today were searching for two Oriental gunmen who last night pumped three bullets into the head of Quon Quan, Chinese police informer, as he was walking along a street in the centre of Chinatown, accompanied by another Chinese.

Quon died as he was being admitted to a hospital shortly after the shooting.

Vancouver officers today reported the criminal investigation bureau yesterday received a telephone call from an unknown woman warning them to keep away from Chinatown.

At the time it was thought the message was only an empty threat, but officers now believe the woman may have had advance information of the plot against Quon.

A search for the woman was under way today.

Girl Flier Reaches New Zealand From England After Daring Tasman Sea Hop

Canadian Press

Auckland, N.Z., Oct. 16.—Jean Batten, twenty-six-year-old woman flier, set an England to New Zealand solo flight record today after a ten-hour and thirty-two-minute journey across the Tasman Sea.

The New Zealand girl reached Auckland at 5.07 p.m. (9.07 p.m., P.S.T., Thursday)—eleven days and fifty-seven minutes after she had taken off from the Lympne airport, England.

AUSTRALIA RECORD

She bettered the record held by H. F. Broadbent for the fastest solo flight from England to Australia by her time of five days, twenty-one hours and three minutes to Port Darwin, where she landed Sunday morning.

Her countrymen gave her a rousing welcome at the Auckland airport.

Miss Batten—holder of the women's solo flight record across the South Atlantic—had disregarded warnings in Sydney, Australia, against attempting the final lap of her flight, which lay across the 1,100 miles of treacherous, shark-infested waters of the Tasman Sea.

Philippine President Says Dikes Not Repaired

Manila, P.I., Oct. 16.—President Manuel Quezon today blamed "false economy" of the government for part of the heavy loss of life from the typhoon and subsequent floods which recently swept northern Luzon Island.

Known dead were placed at 546 today, and little hope was held for 1,045 missing.

During the last three years, President Quezon said at a press conference, the government was so anxious to show a surplus it failed to maintain important river dikes.

The President said at least 100 people were killed as a result of dike breaks.

Finance Minister Expected to Balance His Current Account at Slightly Higher Figure in New Provincial Budget; Municipal Aid Programme Awaited

In a two-hour session yesterday the provincial cabinet discussed the preliminary draft of the new British Columbia budget to be presented to the Legislature within a few weeks.

Departmental estimates for their annual appropriations have been forwarded to the treasury, and the process of fitting the total expenditures to the expected income is now under way.

After yesterday's cabinet meeting, Premier Pattullo indicated some paring of the preliminary estimates would have to be done, but said the government was giving serious consideration to certain necessary expenditures which are proposed.

The policy of the government, it is understood, will be to present a budget to the House balanced on current account. This is, it will provide for all the ordinary functions of the public service, but as in the past few years will not meet the costs of unemployment relief out of current revenue, nor make full provision for payments to the sinking fund.

NO NEW TAXES

As the result of better business conditions, which mean improved tax revenues, coupled with judicious spending, a balance will be achieved without the imposition of any new taxation, it is expected.

A new sales tax, to be used in assisting municipal treasuries, was mooted earlier in the year, but this plan was temporarily dropped when the province was unable to secure clear con-

Coronation Photo Will Be Secured

Before hanging a portrait of His Royal Highness in the assembly room, where it looks down upon the deliberations of the legislators, the government will wait until after the coronation next May so that a picture of King Edward in his coronation robes may be obtained.

The portrait of the late King George, which has hung in the assembly rooms for the last quarter century, will be removed before the Legislature opens. During the spring session it was draped in royal purple and black. The official period of mourning has now ended so it will be taken from the chamber.

Belgium Plans to Remain In League

Havas News Agency

Brussels, Oct. 16. — Belgium remains faithful to the League of Nations, will maintain its agreement with the French and British general staffs and is willing to enter a new Locarno provided it is not asked to assume obligations as guarantor nation, authorized quarters said today.

The government, taking the view that King Leopold's declaration of strict neutrality "spoke for itself," moved swiftly to reinforce the nation's frontiers and to take all other military measures deemed necessary for national defence.

STAFF CO-OPERATION

Resumption of Belgium's pre-war status in international politics does not affect the relations with the French and British army staffs, diplomatic circles pointed out. They stressed that co-operation among the three nations' defence forces was confined to purely technical matters and would continue to be governed by the letters exchanged by Paris, London and Brussels last March after Germany had remilitarized the Rhineland.

FOR NEW PACTS

Far from planning withdrawal from Geneva, Belgium will use the League covenant as its future point of departure for new pacts, diplomats said. They declared the Locarno Treaty of 1925, now considered inoperative since its repudiation by Germany, contained obligations other than those incurred under the covenant.

The question now reportedly under study by the government is how far Belgium ought to go beyond the covenant if it should become a party to a new western European understanding.

It was emphasized Belgium would be willing to accept guarantees of its integrity from other powers under such a pact, but could no longer undertake in exchange to guarantee foreign countries against aggression.

OUTLINE OF POLICY

Associated Press

Paris, Oct. 16.—French alarm over newly asserted Belgian neutrality diminished today as officials analyzed King Leopold's declaration his country would seek to avoid martial entanglements.

With further thought, French observers came to the view the Belgian king's statement rather outlined a policy than constituted a repudiation of existing security accords.

The French view was strengthened by assurances in London Belgium would fulfill its obligations under the League of Nations covenant.

"Baron Cartier de Marchienne, Belgian ambassador to Great Britain, was declared to have given such assurance to Foreign Secretary Eden. (The Belgian representative, it was reported, told Mr. Eden King Leopold's declaration was pointed toward establishing a national policy for prospective conferences to formulate a new European security framework.)

ANSWER AWAITED

Paris awaited Belgium's answer to a four-point questionnaire designed to clarify the royal statement, made Monday before a Brussels cabinet session.

France asked the Belgian attitude toward: The Franco-Belgian military assistance pact; the Locarno Treaty; future discussions of representatives of the original Locarno powers, and the League of Nations.

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 16. — Comment on Belgium's neutrality declaration was cautious here today, with most of the newspapers disposed to await further details of King Leopold's pronouncement.

The London Times said that "when every allowance is made for Belgium's well-known fidelity to engagements and the special occasion of the King's pronouncement, the impression remains unshaken Belgium would like in the future to revert somewhat more closely to her pre-war position. She wants to guard carefully against becoming involved in a war which does not begin in western Europe and which might be prevented from spreading into western Europe.

"France since the war has adopted whole-heartedly a policy of alliances. Belgium has been a rather reluctant participator. She particularly dislikes the Franco-Soviet treaty and its possible repercussions. She looks a little enviously on the detached positions of Switzerland and Holland."

BIG POWERS' EXAMPLE

"Leopold may seem a little unmindful of past efforts by others to give Belgium security and independence," declared The London Daily Herald. "He certainly goes about the diplomatist's business with excessive clumsiness. But the great powers would do well to realize they have set an example of disloyalty to the League and recognize that Belgium is far from the only small country which feels it has become wisdom to get out of the way of imperialist quarrels."

Ontario Hydro Move Traced

Propaganda to Injure Liberals Told of at Toronto Trial

Canadian Press

Toronto, Oct. 16.—The former Ontario Hydro Commission engaged an agent to supply anti-Hydro propaganda to Liberal Party speakers so that, at a "political strategic moment" it would "father it upon the Liberal Party," Ira A. Humphries, K.C., charged today before Chief Justice Hugh E. Rose.

The present Hydro Commission is suing Senator Arthur Meighen and Alfred Maguire, former commissioners, and two others to recover $4,533 paid out to two firms for certain research work done prior to the 1934 Ontario provincial election.

MR. A. APPEARS

"'Mr. A' was a man engaged by the commission to go out and do some work," Mr. Humphries said. "There are no minutes, however, in the Hydro Commission to show what he was to do, and the only method is to read the man's reports and find out. He is a man paid for the express purpose of acting as what is commonly called a stool pigeon.

"He was to ingratiate himself with men interested in private ownership, and congratulate them on knocking down public services."

The agent had proposed to Senator Casgrain, an official of the Montreal Light & Power Company, that fees of public ownership supply propaganda to Liberal speakers in Ontario, Mr. Humphries read.

President in Cincinnati Speech Pledges Future Security For All in U.S.

Associated Press

Cincinnati, Oct. 16.—Opening his Ohio campaign before rain-drenched thousands in the University of Cincinnati Stadium, President Roosevelt said today he had seen "tremendous improvement" over the country and the administration was planning for the "future security" of the United States.

"I don't mean just a living, just having enough to eat and a place to live in," he said. "I mean a living providing a decent diet, education, and a reasonable amount of leisure."

He said he was inclined to think that on November 3 a decision would be made on whether "we shall continue to work for a greater security and a greater human happiness."

"I'm not the least bit worried about the results," he added.

Detroit, Oct. 16.—Asserting he was not afraid of the verdict, President Roosevelt in a speech here last night defined what he called the outstanding issue of the campaign: "Shall the social and economic security and betterment of the masses of the American people be maintained and strengthened or not?"

The President expressed a belief the people of the nation on November 3 would ask for continuance of the "present type of government" in preference to one that "puts dollars above human rights."

O'Donnell, who listed himself as a contributor to the National Union's trust fund, charged Father Coughlin and six other trustees with "mismanagement, unlawful conduct, bad faith, negligence and breach of trust in the performance of their duties."

The bill alleges also that "the defendants have permitted themselves to be emasculated of their powers by Father Coughlin and have permitted him to usurp an absolute and despotic control over the organization."

Named as defendants with Father Coughlin are B. F. Stephenson, Marie W. Rhodes, Eugenia Burke, Dorothy Rhodes, E. Perrin Schwartz, Mrs. Robert E. O'Brien and the National Union for Social Justice of Royal Oak, a Michigan corporation.

REICH TO SEEK NEW DEBT CUT

Associated Press

Berlin, Oct. 16.—Financial experts have decided to seek further reduction in Germany's huge foreign debt, and in the interim, postpone revaluation of the mark, authoritative sources disclosed today.

The decision was reached, it was reported, at lengthy conferences attended by officials of the Reichsbank, the ministry of economics and financial experts.

The German foreign debt approximates 10,000,000,000 marks ($4,000,000,000).

Devaluation was understood to have been made contingent on interest and capital reductions which Reichsbank President Hjalmar Schacht would attempt to obtain between now and a foreign debt conference in Berlin next February.

Dr. Rudolf Eicke, Reichsbank director, intimated the debt move yesterday in a speech before bankers and insurance men. Dr. Eicke said a new interest and debt set-up was necessary as Germany's exports were liable to suffer as a result of currency devalutions in other countries.

Well-known Figure in Meat Processing Field Dies at Edmonton

Edmonton, Oct. 16.—Arthur G Gainer, fifty-two, former Edmonton alderman and one of the best known packing plant authorities in western Canada, died here yesterday afternoon after a lengthy illness.

News of the death of the managing director of Gainers Ltd. at his home in Edmonton was received this morning by J. S. Hall, manager of the Victoria branch of the well-known western firm of packers.

Mr. Gainer was fifty-two years of age, and a native of Ontario. He leaves a widow, one son and three daughters.

For the last six months Mr. Gainer had been living in Victoria seeking to regain his health and for three months had been a patient in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Aberhart Asks More Support

Coronation, Alta., Oct. 16.—Citizens of Alberta were warned today that unless they co-operate with the Social Credit government Premier Aberhart may have to "throw up my hands and say I can do nothing for you."

In an address here last night, Mr. Aberhart declaring the issuance of Prosperity Certificates had been only a partial success, declared:

"If the people do not co-operate any better than that with the dividend principle and use their own Alberta credit, it is possible that in six months, or may be three months, I will have to throw up my hands and say 'I can do nothing for you'. You must use your own credit."

Mr. Aberhart said Prosperity Certificates, first issued in August for the payment of relief road workers, had been only a partial success, because "some alleged social crediters and others would not take them back in change from storekeepers."

Calgary Finance Inquiry to Have

Utilities Board Will Hear Views on Bond Interest Reduction Plan

Canadian Press

Calgary, Oct. 16.—Inquiry into the financial condition of the city of Calgary will open November 16 with Judge A. A. Carpenter, chairman of the board of Alberta public utility commissioners, presiding, it was announced today by Mayor Andrew Davison.

Calgary is seeking a voluntary reduction of interest rates on outstanding civic debentures, and Mayor Davison said representatives of eastern bondholders would attend the inquiry.

The mayor returned from Toronto today after a conference with the eastern bondholders.

HUNT SLAYERS OF INFORMERS

made good their escape by running down an alley.

Witnesses said both slayers were Orientals.

BULLETS EXAMINED

So quickly was the killing accomplished that only scanty descriptions of the "trigger men" have been furnished authorities and their chief clues comprise the three bullets which brought death to the operative. These have been turned over to Inspector J. F. C. B. Vance of the police bureau of science.

Both slayers were described as Chinese and police believe one of the pair may have been injured during the killing. Several drops of blood at the entrance to the lane on Keefer Street, down which they ran, strengthend this opinion and authorities hope the injured man may have to seek medical assistance.

Descriptions of the slayers was given to police as: No. 1, about five feet tall, very slim built, wearing a light tweed overcoat and light cap; No. 2 is said to be about five feet two inches tall and was wearing a dark overcoat and dark fedora hat.

GIVEN PROTECTION

Walking with Quon was another Chinese police operative who, it is reported, is now under protection of the authorities, having surrendered himself to their custody a few minutes after the shooting.

Bearing out the theory that the killing was motivated by vengence for the part Quon and his companion played in a recent gambling raid is the fact that the operative now under protection was warned by a group of Chinese immediately following the arrest of the alleged inmates.

It was stated at police headquarters that one of the detectives involved in the raid was also warned to keep out of Chinatown. Little attention was paid to the threat at the time.

OTHERS TOOK SHELTER

As Quon crumpled under he fusilade other Chinese on the street scurried to cover in vacant doors and passageways, the reports of the heavy calibre weapon being their first intimation killers were working.

AREAS COMBED

Throughout the night detectives combed Chinatown in the hope of finding some clue. Meanwhile police departments of the lower mainland and Fraser Valley were notified.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers are also working in conjunction with the Vancouver police department.

No Changes in B.C. Taxation Expected

stitutional rights to collect such a levy.

The Finance Minister is not expected to recommend any changes in the taxation structure.

However, with increased returns from existing taxes, he will have more funds to take care of additional expenditures.

MUNICIPAL AID

Chief of these expenditures will be the programme for assisting municipal treasuries. According to present indications, this will be done, in the main, by a readjustment of the system of paying for social services, such as mothers' pensions, costs of tubercular patients at Tranquille, inmates of the industrial schools and mental hospitals.

At present municipalities are required to contribute a share for each of their residents receiving such services. Under the new plan the province, it is expected, will pay a larger proportion, or in some cases all the costs, as was done prior to the depression.

Cash grants from liquor profits and pari-mutuel taxes will not be restored, as far as can be learned.

It is expected some indication of the government's plans in this regard will be given at a meeting between the executive of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and the cabinet next Tuesday.

MORE FOR ROADS?

In the Public Works Department the government probably will ask for increased appropriations for maintenance work. For several years now highway maintenance has been carried on for $1,400,000 a year, which has been sufficient to take care of only the most essential work. Other funds have been spent on capital account in reconstruction and blacktopping, but the general highway system requires greater attention to keep it in good order, it is claimed.

Current expenditures during the present fiscal year are estimated at $24,192,594. This figure will be raised by several hundred thousand dollars at least in the 1937-38 budget.

The gain in tax revenues will meet the extra expenditures, it is expected. For the current year the Finance Minister estimated an income from normal tax sources of $24,312,541, but his collections undoubtedly will exceed this figure by a considerable sum. With industrial and business expansion continuing, a further increase is forecast next year in the returns from taxation.

WAR IN THE AIR

In his Toronto address, the British peer prophesied the next war would be fought principally in the air. He went on to say that "Canada of course is at liberty to stay out if she can. We in the Mother Country will be forced into it, whether we like it or not, but I venture to prophesy that Canadians will not be able to keep out of it any more than the United States with her world-wide interests will be able to keep out of it either."

LOOKED FOR STEPS

He spoke of the vulnerability of Canadian cities in view of present day long-range bombing planes, remarked on defence steps in Great Britain, South Africa, Australia and New Zealand, and said: "I feel that in the position in which Canada finds herself today, that with her record in the last war, that she will take steps to see that this will be remedied. The European world is a bad, mad state. It is the role of the English-speaking peoples to prepare for and to be ready to act together if that time comes, and in the meantime to do all we can to prevent the explosion."

CANADIANS' EXAMPLE

Replying, Mr. Mackenzie suggested Lord Elibank should "adopt the principle of Canadians with respect to British affairs." He recalled that six Canadian ministers were in Great Britain last summer and remarked: "We attended scrupulously to our own affairs." Canada, he said, was no longer a colony, and was well equipped to arrive at her own conclusions on matters of government.

Subsequently Lord Elibank said: "I am not attempting to dictate any defence policy to Canada," but made no further comment on Mr. Mackenzie's statement.

NO WAR DISCUSSION

Montreal, Oct. 16 (Canadian Press) —One can speak of almost anything in the Montreal Trades and Labor Council, but from now on mention of the Spanish civil war is taboo. By a vote of 47 to 30 the council yesterday evening decided the civil war would cease to be considered "as pertaining to political and internal matters of a foreign country, and in the best interest of the Labor Government.

JEAN BATTEN SETS RECORDS

She was held up for two days at Sydney by bad weather conditions on the sea route. Before she left she said:

"If I go down in the sea, no one must fly out to look for me. I have chosen to make this flight, and I am confident I can make it, but I don't wish to imperil the lives of others and cause trouble and expense to the country."

The Australian Federal Aviation Board discourages flights over the Tasman Sea in single-motored planes, but has no legal power to prevent them.

FIRST NEW ZEALAND MARK

Miss Batten's record was the first established for the England-New Zealand flight. Her time for the trip to Port Darwin bettered the previous England-Australia mark by 24 hours 16 minutes.

The Anzac girl also holds the record for the round-trip flight between England and Australia as well as the distinction of being the first woman to fly solo the South Atlantic. The round-trip flight, completed last year, took 32 days, 15 hours, 45 minutes.

Miss Batten, twenty-six years of age, made her first attempt to fly to Australia in 1933 when she was forced to give up over Baluchistan. She made a forced landing and leaving her crippled plane traveled by camel and truck to Karachi. Another attempt culminated in a pile-up on a wireless mast in Rome.

"In April, 1934, she accomplished the flight in 14 days, 23½ hours, establishing a new women's record. The previous mark of 19½ days was set by Mrs. Amy Johnson Mollison in 1930.

McGeer's Visit To London Praised

Financial Editor There Says Mayor Did Canada Real Service

Canadian Press

London, Oct. 16.—The financial editor of The London Daily Express said today Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver had done "a very courageous thing" in coming to London and that his visit had done Canada a great service.

In an article in The Express the financial editor said: "Mr. McGeer, the mayor of Vancouver, went on the floor of the Stock Exchange yesterday. Only royalty and rebels, it is said, are allowed to go on the floor of the House. McGeer is not royalty, but he is not by any means a bad rebel.

"I think he has done a very good and courageous thing in coming to London. He wanted to get relief for his city by reduction of interest on bonds held by investors and said so. The London Stock Exchange was shocked. At one time nobody would deal in the bonds.

BUSINESS BARGAINS

"McGeer's object was for the relief of the city and it was a laudable object. Nevertheless a deal is a deal and it is a principal of sound business that bargains, once entered into, should be carried out unless both parties consent to a change. The difficulties of carrying out bargains are sometimes great and as soon as the strain gets to the breakpoint it is pretty certain the worst is over.

"Those who hold on past that period enhance their credit and reputation. I believe that is what we are going to find in Vancouver and the Canadian west. McGeer's unofficial visit has done a great service to the Dominion. My view is that Canada's tide of prosperity is coming in. Prices are going to rise, when all unpleasant things will be covered up and shrink into their true perspective."

LORD MAYOR'S SHOW NOV. 9

Sir George Broadbridge Will Go to Swearing-in Ceremony in Traditional Parade Through Streets of London

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 16.—Alderman Sir George Broadbridge, who will succeed Sir Percy Vincent as Lord Mayor of London on November 9, will make the customary visit to the Law Courts, to be sworn-in by the Lord Chief Justice.

On his way there, and on the way back, he will be accompanied by that old-time perambulating exhibition known as the Lord Mayor's Show. The chief feature of the show will be a depiction of military forces of the city and the part they played in the gradual evolution and expansion of the forces of the Crown. This will be arranged by Major G. Walker, secretary of the Honourable Artillery Company, which claims to be the oldest martial body in the world.

Boys of the City of London School are to represent the train-bands of Queen Elizabeth's Day.

Men of the modern Grenadiers will take part as lineal descendants of the foot guards recruited in the city by beat of drum in 1664. The Lord Mayor, as such, is Admiral of the Port of London. It is only fitting, therefore, for present day Marines to find a place in the procession.

Also included will be a detachment of veterans who served in the South African War, 1899-1902, as members of the City Imperial Volunteers, a regiment which was raised when things were going badly with the British forces, and which was disbanded immediately after the close of hostilities.

Coughlin Urged To Take Rest

Associated Press

Baltimore, Oct. 16. — The Catholic Review, official organ of Archbishop Michael J. Curley of Baltimore, editorially urged Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin and Msgr. John A. Ryan today to "retire into solitude and rest awhile."

"The rest of us need a little rest from the two gentlemen," the editorial said, referring indirectly to Monsignor Ryan of the Catholic University, Washington, and the Detroit orator as "political parsons."

"If both the reverend gentlemen would retire for some time to the Carthusian Order, where perpetual silence is observed, they would do a great favor to the church and the country at large," the editorial said.

Many Applying For Allowance

Ottawa Department Clears Up Misunderstanding on Funds For Veterans

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—More than 10,000 persons in Canada are receiving the war veterans' allowance, with applications pouring in to the board. Due to misapprehension on the part of innumerable ex-servicemen who are under the impression the age limit was reduced at the last session of Parliament from sixty to fifty-five years, applicants increased from 300 in January to more than 1,000 in July, officials said yesterday.

Heretofore the act provided for two classes of veterans, it was explained. One was the person who had reached the age of sixty; the other was the man who, through physical or mental disability, was permanently unemployable, regardless of age.

At the last Parliamentary session an amendment was approved taking care of the "borderline classes." These embraced ex-servicemen who had served in a theatre of actual war and who, having reached the age of fifty-five, were incapable of maintaining themselves because of "pre-aging, disabilities and general unfitness."

The War Veterans' Allowance Board has not the power to award grants to men in normal physical and mental health at the age of fifty-five.

The allowance to unmarried veterans is $20 a month, and to married $40. The men are encouraged to take gainful employment, however, and to make casual earnings.

ALBERTA HAS TEST ON SCRIP

Injunction to Prevent Utilities Payments in That Way in Edmonton Is Sought

Canadian Press

Edmonton, Oct. 16.—The City of Edmonton and the Alberta government face the possibility of further litigation in their desire to come to an agreement over provincial scrip money.

R. H. Watson, Edmonton mining engineer, filed a court notice yesterday he would seek an injunction restraining the city from accepting scrip in payment of utilities services as authorized by the City Council last Tuesday. The notice indicated it would be heard here October 23.

It was Watson who last August upset by court action an agreement between Edmonton and the provincial government under which the city undertook to take scrip in lieu of cash relief money.

The Edmonton City Council, by a 5-4 vote, agreed last Tuesday to accept scrip from anyone in payment of utilities bills for water, light, telephones and street car services. This is the decision Watson now desires set aside by the courts.

REDEMPTION SLOW

Redemption of Alberta scrip which started here yesterday for the second monthly period, is slow, according to officers of the treasury department. Few certificates were being presented for conversion into Canadian money, it was stated by provincial officials.

The Aberhart government distributed $236,000 in scrip money early in August. At the first three-day redemption period in September, $140,000 was redeemed, and since then $25,000 has been reissued.

Senator Guffey said the list of DuPont contributors had been prepared by him after "an extensive investigation from all available records," made by investigators retained by him as chairman of the senatorial campaign committee.

"On the basis of my investigation," Mr. Guffey said, "I feel safe in saying the DuPont contributions to the Republican campaign will total more than $750,000 by election time."

WINNIPEG RELIEF KITCHEN IS STONED

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 16.—A number of windows in a soup kitchen at Princess Street and Ross Avenue were without glass today following a clash yesterday between police and single unemployed men.

Some 150 men paraded to the kitchen and a delegation of twenty was named to see Superintendent R. A. Murphy and ask for food and shelter for those cut off relief. Police stationed at the door refused the delegation permission to enter the hall.

The paraders fired a fusillade of rocks and brickbats and a number of police and bystanders suffered minor injuries. Stones hurtled through the soup kitchen windows and flying glass inflicted further injuries.

Police drew batons and charged, and in three minutes the mob had dispersed.

Endeavor, Sask., Oct. 16.—Evalyn Schora, four years old, and her one and half-year-old sister, Edna, "met death by taking poison from no known origin" last August 8, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury.

The children ate dough being prepared for baking by their mother, Mrs Lena Schora. According to the evidence at the inquest yesterday, it was indicated poison used for killing mice had in some manner got into the dough. The little girls died in convulsions shortly after eating the baking material.

Japan Bars J. S. Kennard of U.S. Baptist Society on Grounds of Communism

Yokohama, Japan, Oct. 16.—Police prevented Joseph Spencer Kennard of Philadelphia from landing when he arrived here today, charging he harbors dangerous Communistic thoughts and advocates anti-war principles injurious to the peace and order of Japan.

Mr. Kennard, who spent sixteen years as a lecturer and missionary in Japan, where he was attached to the American Baptist Foreign Missionary Society, went to the United States last June and was returning from his vacation when he was barred.

Mr. Kennard denied the charges. He did say he had constantly advocated peace, but added he had worked to improve relations between Japan and the United States.

Mines Soon Are To Be Reopened

Vancouver, Oct. 16.—Mr. Justice Robertson in the B.C. Supreme Court here yesterday ordered the liquidation of the Granby Consolidated Mining, Smelting & Power Company stayed so as to allow the company to resume operations at Copper Mountain and Allenby, B.C.

Reopening of those properties would result in the employment of about 600 men, C. H. Locke, counsel for the liquidators, said in stressing the public importance of the application.

In view of the fact that 95 per cent of the shareholders favored the application, Mr. Justice Robertson decided it was not necessary to serve shareholders with further notice of the petition.

DIRECTORS WILL ACT

Winding up of the Granby Company will be permanently stayed as from October 22, by which date the new directors will take over from the liquidators, Adrian S. Baillie of Vancouver, the company's former accountant, and Nathan L. Amster of New York, a director.

The company was incorporated in 1901 and carried on until 1935, when it closed its plant at Anyox, B.C. Reopening of Copper Mountain and Allenby is due to better prices available for copper, it is said.

Mr. Locke said the liquidators had more than $400,000 on hand after realizing $4,500,000 for the shareholders.

Spanish Party To Visit Canada

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—A. A. MacLeod of Toronto, national chairman of the League Against War and Fascism, who was in Ottawa today after a tour of Spain, announced a delegation from the Spanish government would come here October 22 to describe issues confronting that beleaguered administration.

Mr. MacLeod said stories charging the Spanish government with persecution of the Roman Catholic Church were fabrications. He declared churches in the country had been closed to protect them from vandalism.

He said members of the delegation coming here are, M. Domingo, leader of the Republican party and former Minister of Education Isabella de Palencia, member of the Cortes, and Rev. Father Luis Sarasola, Basque priest and ecclesiastical writer.

Mr. MacLeod showed reporters the shell of a discharged incendiary bomb bearing the name of a German arms manufacturer. He said he had picked it up on a Madrid Street.

CANADA IS TOO COLD FOR LAPP

Reindeer Herder Going Home Because Mackenzie River Winters Too Hard

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Oct. 16.—For a mere Laplander, the Canadian winter in the Mackenzie River district is too cold. Matthus W. Hatto, expert reindeer herder brought to the Barren Lands to tend the herd Canada is developing to provide food for the Eskimos, is returning with his family to his native land.

"I quit the job of looking after the reindeer because it was too cold, and I was afraid we would die," the husky Laplander said here yesterday in the halting English he has learned in his five years in this country.

Back in Lapland the lowest temperature recorded was 30 below zero, he said, "and that's cold enough." In the Mackenzie River district it fell sometimes to 70 below. Trudging about a herd of 3,000 reindeer to keep them in order in that temperature was too much.

Hatto arrived here yesterday from Edmonton, and is making arrangements about passports and boat accommodation for the journey home.

The announcement was coupled with a statement by Myron C. Taylor, United States Steel board chairman, that "happily the tide has turned . . . the rhythm of recovery has been re-established."

New plants, Irvin said, would add 2,500 men to the 17,000 now employed by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, the corporation's Birmingham subsidiary.

Construction, including a tinplate mill, would begin immediately.

MUSICAL ARTS OPEN SEASON

Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Hamber Welcomed at First Programme

By G.J.D.

What may well be termed a delightful evening with chamber music was that of yesterday at the Empress Hotel ballroom, when the Victoria Musical Arts Society presented, in the first of its winter series of evening concerts, a programme which contained a Beethoven sonata; two numbers of the late seventeenth and early eighteenth century composers (Sebastian Bach and Senaille), interspersed with two readings and two duets for soprano and baritone.

It opened with the Sonata in A Major, opus 69, by Beethoven, one of this composers five sonatas for piano and violoncello, written in his "second period"—the freest and most joyous; and closed with the Adagio from Bach's Toccata in C Major, and an Allegro Spiritoso, a sensitive, alert and captivating little piece written by Senaille, a well-known string writer of the 1687-1730 period, played by Mary Bucklin Hammond (violoncello) and Helen Ockenden (piano).

The sonata, full of beautiful soothing music, was imbued with the right Beethoven spirit, the all too short adagio being really "linked sweetness" in the hands of the two sensitively inclined players, and the last movement, allegro vivace, was proclaimed with plenty of virility, everything being kept under control and co-ordinated to artistic purpose.

The Bach adagio had consequential feeling, the 'cellist imparting a lovely cantilena to her performance that was altogether delightful. The Senaille had nice technical agility and on both occasions the two players were brought insistently to the platform.

Mary Bucklin Hammond seemed to have added dignity to her 'cello playing which is always stimulating and with an assured technique she combines sensitiveness and expressiveness, and Helen Ockenden, suiting admirably, combined fine musical perception and imaginative sympathy, which always suggests perfect ensemble.

The two readings, "The Wind at the Four Seasons" (Edmond Havancourt) and "A Broken Heart" (Anonymous), the former in French, by Madame E. Sanderson-Mongin, were quite artistic and enjoyable, Eileen Dumbleton at the piano playing her appropriate adaptation of Justin Gilbert's well-constructed music.

Thelma Johns, soprano, and Harry Johns, baritone, both cordially welcomed, were heard in two duets, George Hoffman's "I Feel the Angel Spirit" and the famous duet from "Pagliacci," the impassioned "My Fate Is In Thy Hands," that pleased greatly in musical grasp and well-applied vocal technics.

Mrs. Clifford Warn was the accompanist to the duetists and once more proved dependable and capable.

Mrs. J. O. Cameron was the convener of the evening's proceedings, which were prefaced by Mrs. Allon Peebles, the president of the society, who gave a brief outline of its winter concerts and of the activities of its minor branches, junior and intermediate, and had as its prime object the introduction of its members to His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber, who had expressed their willingness to become the society's honorary patrons, and were present.

His Honor, at the conclusion of the programme, in an inspiring and most heartening talk, commended the work the Victoria Musical Arts Society was accomplishing in behalf of the city's musical welfare and the other arts, and hoped it would have the support it so well deserved.

The Ghost of Locarno

ON OCTOBER 17, 1925, THIS newspaper, in common with thousands of other newspapers throughout the world, made no attempt to disguise its jubilation over the successful completion of those European conversations which resulted in what came to be known as the famous Locarno pacts. This is an extract from The Times editorial of eleven years ago:

"Last Thursday France and Germany covenanted hereafter to submit all their differences to arbitration and never again resort to arms as a means of settling them. Great Britain and Italy promised to go to the military assistance of either nation which should be the victim of a violation of this pledge. This is the principal victory of the Locarno conference. It means in detail that two historical enemies have agreed that between them shall run the demilitarized Rhine zone forever inviolate—that neither will ever cross it to attack the other.

"Well may it be said that history has been made at Locarno. Nobody will suggest that all danger of war has been removed from the continent of Europe. The custom of ages may not be so quickly abolished. But the fact remains that the pact into which France and Germany entered in the courthouse of the little Swiss town last Thursday bids fair to sweep away much of that international distrust and jealousy upon which the germ of dissension and strife so easily thrives. It may not be exaggerating the case to argue that this understanding is more important than the Treaty of Versailles. Here is an agreement entered into freely by two traditional enemies. The treaty which marked the official ending of the great conflict was a document of conditions imposed—a treaty of conquest."

Within the last forty-eight hours Europe has been plunged into another of its almost weekly crises. Belgium's King Leopold has advised his government to revert to his country's pre-war neutrality status. Repercussions were immediately felt in both London and Paris—and Berlin naturally cocked its official ears. The statement of the Belgian king in its bald form was taken to mean that the government at Brussels had been advised, by suggestion, at least, to forget all about the Locarno pacts, that Belgium must get down to the job of preparing to defend herself in an emergency, irrespective of any arrangement into which she may have entered with either Great Britain or France, Germany or Italy.

Today's dispatches from Europe, however, indicate that the first feverish interpretations placed upon King Leopold's speech were hardly justified. Conversations between ambassadors in London and Paris, together with the exchange of hastily-concocted "notes," seem to have elicited the information that while Belgium feels the necessity to take very careful stock of her position, she still is ready to play her part as a contributor to any new formula to stave off what nobody wants—another international conflagration. It is to be noted with satisfaction that Belgium has definitely declared that she will fulfill her obligations under the League of Nations Covenant. As this is written, of course, the haze which these developments have cast over the European situation is far from easy to penetrate. But by this time the people over there ought to be practically shock-proof.

It is to the point, however, to recall some of the outstanding international "incidents" since the Locarno pacts were drawn up eleven years ago. In the main, the Treaty of Versailles, bit by bit, has been consigned to the wastebasket of international documents. The Germany that was to pay for the whole cost of the war has been loaned money by the victorious Allies to pay them back a part of the cost to them of defeating the Central Powers. Germany has been in and has got out of the League of Nations. Germany successfully wangled the authority to build a new navy—and then proceeded to trample under goosestepping military feet the Locarno pact as it concerned the demilitarized Rhineland. She is rearming Heligoland, and, generally, is putting, at her former enemies, the thumb of scorn to the nose of derision.

The Oriental "incident," of course, is the still active penetration of Japan in China—Japan no longer is a member of the League of Nations—but Nippon's wrist really was smacked by the League of Nations. Italy followed the example of Japan and conducted a "civilizing" mission in Ethiopia, with all the poison gas auxiliaries that modern science has been able to devise. So far the bad business in Spain has been restricted to that country, but there always is the danger that it may spill over and provide an excuse for "shirtists" of various hues to "mix" with one another.

So, as the eleventh anniversary of Locarno has come round, there is everything in Continental Europe except the Locarno spirit. The question arises: Is it possible for the powers of the Old World to get together once more and work out some plan that will give civilization another chance to breathe more freely? It is not necessary to emphasize the fact that another major conflagration would produce a world state that baffles the imagination.

Our Contracting World

THOSE THREE NEWSPAPER PEOple who are racing around the globe may not realize it, but they are presenting the world with a neat little object lesson on the folly of jealous nationalism.

Using ordinary, commercial means of transportation, these journalists expect to circle the globe in three weeks or less. That measures the shrinkage of the earth in this modern era. It shows just how closely the races of man have been jammed together by twentieth century science.

In a world grown as small as that—a world which you can completely circle in less time than you could have crossed the Atlantic a century ago—it ought to be clear to the blindest that men are under a greater compulsion than ever before to get along with one another, to cooperate; to substitute harmony for discord.

Yet the trend has been all the other way, ever since the war. A policy of isolation has been followed in almost every great capital. Nation after nation has tried to pull down the blinds and pretend that it could work out its own salvation without regard for what its neighbors did—just as if those neighbors were still as far away as they were at the time of the Napoleonic wars. And our neighbor on the south of us has been one of the chief offenders — as President Roosevelt quite frankly admits.

Such a policy may have been all right a century ago. It is far from all right now. For an odd thing about technological improvement is that when you invent a new machine, you are compelled to use it, whether you want to or not.

Inventing machines that have made the earth shrink from a tenth of its old size, men are forced to use them. They have to live in this new, smaller world, where their neighbors are next door instead of miles across the prairie. To try to live as if nothing had been changed is folly.

This effort to swim against the current has created an unbearable tension; a tension that is reflected in armament races, in surly dictatorships, in declining standards of living, in mass regimentation, in the fear and suspicion that make people take it for granted that there will be a new world war before 1940.

Fortunately, it is not too late to change. There are signs, at last, that the nations are beginning to come to their senses. Within the last two weeks, Britain, France and our neighboring republic have joined forces to stabilize the world's monetary system and revive world trade. Smaller nations have followed suit. The currency war, at last, seems to be coming to an end.

Nor is this all. The French government is taking action to lower its tariff walls and has offered to suppress the import quotas which strangle trade in its cradle. There is at least a chance that it will get enough co-operation from the other powers to make world recovery real and thereby to drive away the shadow of approaching war.

Something of the kind is in the cards, certainly. A world that can be circumnavigated in less than twenty-one days is a world in which peoples must get along with one another or perish miserably—this, notwithstanding the disturbing news from continental Europe in the last forty-eight hours.

Jew-Baiter Mosley

WHAT GREAT BRITAIN DOES about Sir Oswald Mosley, her Fascist leader, is her own business. John Bull is renowned for his tolerance. As long as the dozens of 'isms advocates control their emotions and keep their "advice" within bounds they are permitted to enjoy more latitude over there than in any country in the world. But woe betide them if they overstep the mark and come directly into conflict with law and order.

Mosley seems to be getting more aggressive—not to say "cocky"—as he adds to his black-shirted ranks; but a dispatch from London yesterday would appear to suggest that the government at Westminster is noting his activities. For example, Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, Secretary of State for War, said that "the majority of Englishmen have no sympathy with red Communism or black Fascism. Steps must be taken to see that order—the greatest gift a government can give—is observed."

Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for Defence Co-ordination, speaking at Watford, said "these Fascists tell us that they are fighting against the Communists, but the people who are making Communists today are Sir Oswald Mosley and his friends. The government is compelled to consider whether measures are not necessary to restrict liberties because these people abuse them."

It is permitted to suggest, of course, that the chief object of Mosley's mission in life is to become dictator of Great Britain. If this is not his object, there is no special point in his black-shirt theatricals. He makes out that he wants to curb Communism; yet he goes into the East End of London and engages in the Hitlerite pastime of Jew-baiting. Two Tory Ministers of the Crown, however, seem to have got his number.

Notes

Perfect example of self-confidence: Working crossword puzzles with a fountain pen.

A contemporary quotes Lord William Scott of Edinburgh as saying that "Adolf Hitler is as near a saint as man can be," that "he does not smoke, swear, nor drink and has no vices at all." Do we hear some cockney saying: "Wot a loife!"

That part of the world which has not gone entirely war-mad will sympathize with little Belgium in her determination, as expressed by King Leopold, to defend her neutrality. The trouble begins, just as it did in 1914, when some nation makes up its mind that it does not care a tinker's cuss about any other's neutrality.

The Dominion Government ought to do something about the drift westward of single men out of employment. British Columbia has not the means of providing for them. Vancouver City is up against a very difficult problem. Is the only solution to it the arrest of those who offend a civic ordinance and their transference to a provincial jail—where they will get "three squares" at the expense of the taxpayers of the province?

LOOSE ENDS

It's good sport chasing Chilacootin steers—when you have a cow horse like Duke to show you how—And it sounds swell to the folks at home, who don't know any better.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

COWBOY

SPIKE HAD A BOIL that day, on a place most inconvenient when you have to ride a cayuse and herd wild steers, newly arrived from the Chilacootin. (This, Chilacootin, is the pronunciation which shows you to be an old-timer. The map and the greenhorn call it the Chilcotin. But what do they know about it?). Yes, Spike had a boil in a place somewhat inconvenient for riding, and Michael O'Shea was breaking in his young stallion and wouldn't use a bit, only a rope hackamore, for fear of ruining its mouth. So neither of them were much use for punching cows. This left the chief responsibility on me and I felt it keenly.

First, we had to find the steers. Maybe you think it is easy to find three hundred Chilacootin steers up on the O'Shea's plateau, in a country about ten miles by ten, cut with deep gullies and thick spruce forests. We rode for two hours without seeing a steer's track. We rode out over the brown rolling range, where the little clumps of poplars around the water holes were pure yellow and shimmering in the October sun like a fountain, like a cascade of molten gold. On the poplar every round leaf seems to dance of its own accord, in a perpetual gyration; so that the sound of a tree in the sightest wind is like the falling of a light rain.

From the round, smooth hummocks of the range the little lakes where the cattle drink looked like wide-open eyes, utterly blue under the blue sky, with the yellow and gold and orange of the poplars reflected in them.

FRASER

WE RODE OFF the range up through the woods above the Fraser, where the great gnarled firs stand far apart and grow slowly with innumerable knots, so dry that the wood burns with a fierce crackle the very day it is cut. We rode through forests of red-barked pines and stunted junipers with blue berries on them and a wild pungent smell. We rode out to the edge of the plateau and looked down on the Fraser, 3,000 feet down, a mere brown trickle from here, thick as newly-mixed concrete, its canyon a vast brown scar across the country, and the chaos of black hills behind it.

No sign of steers around here, nor up by the Twenty-Nine either—only the skeleton of a big horse, gnawed clean and white by the coyotes last winter—a roan horse judging by the little fringe of hair that the coyotes had left around its feet.

"That's poor old Thunder," Michael said. Thunder had been a great workhorse in his time and much in demand for bucking contests, too, but they'd pensioned him off years ago and he'd spent his last days in quiet retirement on the range.

TRACKS

WE CROSSED the road north of the Twenty-Nine and headed out on the east range where we could look down into the canyon lakes, a long string of them, like jewels strung together, and above them the poplars seemed to bubble up out of the black hills and stream down in foaming yellow rivers. There Michael picked up cattle tracks in the wet earth beside the irrigation creek.

We followed them up through a tangle of spruce where we had to lie close to the horses' necks to dodge the low branches, and two miles further came out on the range again to find a hundred head or more grazing on the dried bunch grass. They looked up at us, white faces scowling, slanting Asiatic eyes full of a dull hate. These Chilacootin steers don't see men more than twice a year.

We had to herd them around the woods, and that wasn't easy. Michael's stallion was too young and foolish to know the game and Spike had a boil. So it was up to old Duke, the grand old bay I was riding, to do most of the work.

Fortunately, Duke knows more about cattle and their ways than any man alive. He can tell by the look in a steer's eye which way he will break, and Duke is always there before him. All I had to do was hang on while Duke dashed this way and that, turnng on two feet, stopping dead in mid-gallop, driving straight at a dozen steers who would wait until he was only three feet away before turning with a comical grunt of alarm and dashing off. And sometimes when one of those ruffians refused to budge, old Duke would charge into him, hitting him on the shoulder with his great chest and bowling him right over upon the ground. After one collision with Duke, a steer, even a Chilacootin steer, usually decides to come quietly.

GOOD SPORT

HERE, in this broken country, rounding up Chilacootin steers is the best sport in the world—up hill and down hill, jumping irrigation ditches and little gullies, galloping through brush where you can only put your arm before your eyes and trust your horse not to take you aganst a branch big enough to sweep you off his back. It is slippery on the bunch grass and you can feel Duke's feet slide sometimes as he turns in full gallop, but there's nothing you can do about it. You think grimly that in Victoria the boys will just be going out for their 11 o'clock coffee, the drugstore cowboys, and when Duke takes a low rail fence on high, you rather wish you were with the boys in Victoria.

In an hour we had the whole band moving down the range to the road, not too fast, for you can knock ten pounds off an animal by a little hard running. We crowd them, whistling and yip-yipping to keep them on the move, for Chilacootin steers are the most stubborn things alive, worse than politicians. Finally we get them down to the ranch just at dark, and we crowd them into the barnyard towards the big coral. But at the gate they pause, heads down, and huddle together in a solid phalanx which even Duke can't budge and suddenly with a snort, they break in all directions, streaming past us up the road.

Michael's stallion goes wild and Spike has been sitting on a boil all day and can only groan, so it is up to Duke. The old bay streaks out back up the road, tireless after a long day, catches up to the steers, rushes past them, then turns with a jolt that goes up my spine to the back of my neck, and chases them back again.

Three times we get the steers to the gate and three times they crowd together, whispering to themselves, and three times they break and stream up the road, Duke in hot pursuit, and I pretty proud to be on him, telling myself that this will sound pretty big to the folks back home who don't know any better.

On the fourth time, easing them, coaxing them, cursing them, kicking them in the rear from our saddles (Spike groaning that the boil must have broken) we manage to get one old shaggy steer through the gate and the rest follow in a mad red torrent, a thundering cataract. Old Duke sidles up to the gate and pushes it shut without troubling me to dismount. From the stable Spike groans that it's broken, all right.

Prison Different Inside

From the Cleveland Press

It is not likely that very many judges will follow the advice of Judge Michael Angelo Musmanno of Pittsburgh and do a brief stretch in prison to learn what it is like to be on the receiving end of a sentence.

Judge Musmanno got the quaint notion that a man whose job it is to send other men to prison ought to know a little something about prison life. So he had himself put through the hopper recently at Pennsylvania's Western Penitentiary.

He came out, after three days as a convict, announcing that the prison had taught him more than Harvard had, and urging all judges to go and do likewise.

"It is extraordinary," he says, "that this has not been done before. It is like talking about combating an epidemic without seeing some of the victims to determine the type of epidemic that is to be treated."

A judge's part in the "war against crime" is a rather peculiar one, when you stop to think about it. He comes into each case cold, so to speak; himself the very incarnation of respectability and uprightness. He is forever being confronted with people who have very little of either quality, and is compelled to say what should be done with them.

On the surface, his job may be simple enough—to put these people where they will not do any more harm. A safe-cracker behind the bars is not going to do any more safe-cracking until his sentence expires; for the time being, at least, society is protected and the problem is solved.

But it is not quite so simple as that. The safe-cracker will come out again, some day—and then what? Will prison have persuaded him to give up his chosen calling, or will it have made him a more confirmed and talented safe-cracker than he was before?

Will the net result of his sentence be a decline or an increase in society's danger from the safe-cracker as a class?

Judge Musmanno seems to think that the man on the bench ought to have some of the answers to those questions before he pronounces sentence. If he could only get into the other man's skin briefly; if he could gain some sort of understanding of the tormented and twisted complex of emotions and ideas that go to make up the criminal—would not he, then, be able to serve society better as a judge?

FOR VISITORS AT WINDSOR CASTLE

From a London Correspondent

The King has authorized a number of changes at Windsor Castle, and thousands of visitors will benefit from them.

Visitors are to be admitted to the state apartments without having to wait for guides to take a party. Also the entrance fee has been reduced by half—to sixpence.

Fourteen warders have been appointed to safeguard the valuable paintings and furniture in the apartments.

A huge increase in the number of sightseers—many of them from overseas—has caused this change. So many people have wanted to be conducted over the castle that many were disappointed. Under the new system more visitors will probably be able to see the apartments and the charities to which the entrance money goes will benefit.

SWEDEN'S PROSPERITY

From American-Swedish Monthly

Less than 500 persons are on the dole in Sweden. The total of registered unemployed was 43,000 when I visited Sweden last August, and of these about 30,000 had jobs on public works. Only about 13,000 men therefore lacked work. And since August economic conditions have continued to improve. While America's industrial production is still about 26 per cent. below the 1929 peak, Sweden's is 10 per cent. above it, and the Swedes are looking forward to enjoying an estimated surplus revenue of 22,400,000 kroner, due to the greatly increased revenue from prosperous business. Sweden is celebrating complete recovery with factories running full blast and her workers employed to capacity; in fact, she is better off than in 1929.

SULKS AND ASTHMA

From The Sydney Post-Record

is related to psychological factors, Dr. R. D. Gillespie, head of Guy's department of psychological medicine, in London, relates in the current British Medical Journal the case of a man who developed the complaint while on an unhappy vacation with his wife, in the course of which he sulked all the time.

Dr. Gillespie also cites the case of a woman in whom attacks of asthma were brought on by a postman knocking at the door, by excitement, worry cats and people she did not like. In another instance, an elderly man suffered attacks only when he smoked a particular tobacco, the same as that used by his son-in-law with whom he lived at loggerheads.

SALUTE TO THE SPARROW

THOMAS R. BRADY

In Our Dumb Friends

Blithe creature of the air,
God keep thee long;
May He in goodness spare
Thy humble song,
Though much maligned and spurned by men
I, for one, am happy when
I hear your merry chirp again.

The spring and summer days
I must reserve
To give the rest the praise
That they deserve.
But when the leaden skies forecast
The coming of the winter's blast
You come into your own at last.

Too true, thou art a tramp
Who loves to fight;
But I admire the scamp
Who knows his right;
Who, lacking gifts of birth and grace
Goes boldly out to win the race
And puts the others in their place.

A WORD FOR THE MIDDLEMAN

From The Winnipeg Free Press

It might be fair to reckon up the service rendered the community by that vague but often maligned figure, the middleman. Often listening to economic discussions or to the speeches of those who have their own recipes for Utopia, it would appear that if the middleman were eliminated, then everything would be well and everyone would live happily.

It was the middleman who, through the heat siege, kept the milk and cream on ice for those without benefit of private refrigeration. It was the middleman who delivered the meat fresh. It was the middleman who brought forward the fruit which indicated that somewhere there had been rain and kindly sunshine. True, all of this and much more beside is in his accustomed routine. But the middleman, like everyone else, has his faculties well attuned for the general run of weather. He may even be ready for the odd ninety and 100 degree day, but such days prolonged to weeks constitute an emergency for him just as they do for his fellow endurers.

This emergency he met. His service did not falter. He carried his own load and helped with that of numerous others. Communities everywhere owe an especial debt to the middleman. This is his turn to take the bow.

FOREST FIRES COSTLY

From The Sault Star

At a very conservative estimate the forest fires which in the past few days have been sweeping the Ranger Lake-Mississauga country north of the Sault have destroyed well over $1,500,000 worth of white pine—perhaps over $2,500,000, although it is impossible at this stage to make any accurate estimates. That is a lot of timber from the finest remaining stand of white pine in the north. The timber that has already been destroyed in the area immediately north of the Sault, it has been estimated, would build a city almost as large as the Sault. Think of that!

GIVES YOUTH PEACE PLEA

Ralph E. Dent Begs Rotarians For Support and Tells of Geneva Congress

"I beseech you in the name of youth to do something for us. We do not want war; we want peace, work, security, the possibility of setting up our own homes and raising our own children," was the plea which Rotarians heard at their luncheon yesterday from Ralph E. Bent, one of the thirty-two Canadian delegates to the World Youth Congress in Geneva this summer.

Referring to Rotarians as representatives of the middle class, which throughout history had controlled the destiny of nations and the balance of power, he said it was in their power to prevent "terrible happenings in the future" by doing something about present suffering and distress.

He saw in a possible success of the Spanish Fascists the signal for a world-wide uprising in which the rights of men would be lost.

WORK OF CONGRESS

Mr. Dent reviewed the work of the youth congress, which had given the opportunity for the youth of various nations to get together and exchange their views on international affairs.

reach a programme for the prevention of war, and discuss the closer co-operation between youth organizations and with the League of Nations.

Youth, he said, did not believe war was inevitable, nor that the League was a failure. Its mistakes had been caused not by the principles of the organization as a whole, but by the action of individual members, and its humanitarian work had in a few years saved more lives than had been lost in the Great War.

The speaker was introduced by Pat Malone and thanked by Frank I. Doherty, president of the club.

Patrick E. Corcoran and Thomas H. Kelway were elected new members.

SAYS TRAVEL TO KEEP UP

N. R. Des Brisay, C.P.R. Traffic Manager, Predicts Improved Winter Business

"We are anticipating heavy winter travel to the coast and expect next summer's tourist movement to be equally as good as this season's, if not better," said N. R. Des Brisay, C.P.R. assistant passenger traffic manager, Winnipeg, on his arrival in the city yesterday.

"The past summer's travel over the C.P.R. lines was most gratifying. It greatly exceeded our expectations," said Mr. Des Brisay.

The volume of business handled, he said, amply indicated that it was a North Pacific coast travel year.

Specific reference was made by the passenger traffic executive to the heavy travel this year to Alaska, which has benefited not only the C.P.R., but other lines participating in the movement.

He spoke of the remarkably fine service given by the C.P.R. coastal steamers and of the unprecedented traffic handled by the boats throughout the season.

PRAIRIE TRAVEL

Another feature of the summer travel movement, Mr. Des Brisay said, was the increased number of visitors to the coast from the Canadian prairies. "All through the season, from June to September, we handled unusually heavy traffic from the prairies. And it looks as if it will continue during the winter," he said.

He estimated that at least 20,000 people from the prairies were handled over the company's lines to the B.C. Coast this season, the bargain fares offering special inducement to travel.

Mr. Des Brisay will remain in Victoria over the week-end.

He met C. E. Stockdill, assistant to the C.P.R. vice-president at Winnipeg, yesterday and held a conference at the Empress Hotel with C. H. Bowes, assistant general passenger agent, Vancouver, and A. T. McKeen and S. M. Andrews, freight officials from Vancouver.

Present Charter To Alberni Club

Kinsmen Hold Interesting Gathering; William Foster Is Speaker

Presentation of a charter to the newly-formed Kinsmen Club at Port Alberni took place Wednesday evening at a regular supper meeting of the Victoria Kinsmen Club, which was attended by about forty members, in the Empress Hotel.

William Foster of the Dominion Experimental Farm, Sidney, was the guest speaker and his topic was "Biological Aspects of Heredity Environment."

A communication from the Vancouver club was read, extending an invitation to the Victoria members to attend their Oceanic Cabaret event in Vancouver on November 13.

Further plans were laid for the holding of "Ladies' Night" on October 31, at the Empress Hotel. It was decided to hold a hard-times dance on November 21, at the Monte Carlo.

The following contributed to the programme: P. Balagno and A. Food, Victoria, and T. Bertram and D. Bickerton, Port Alberni. Miss Miriam Schwabe, accompanied by Miss Payne, gave two tap dance numbers.

LANGFORD

Market Board Appeal Opens

Chung Chuck Case Now Before Court of Appeal Here

The appeal of Leslie Gilmore et al, representing the British Columbia Coast Vegetable Marketing Board, against the injunction restraining them from interfering with the transport of potatoes from the Ladner farm of Chung Chuck et al, opened before the British Columbia Court of Appeal yesterday, with R. L. Maitland, K.C., opening argument for the appellant marketing board officials.

The hearing continued today.

The injunction restraining the marketing board from interfering with the Chinese farmers' use of the road and from interfering with the transport of their potatoes from the farm to a place for storage or storage preliminary to export, was granted by Mr. Justice Murphy in Vancouver on July 8, 1936.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

The appeal followed completion of the hearing of the Sophia Dymond vs. Victoria Jane Wilson case, on which judgment was reserved.

Sophia Dymond brought action against the proprietress of certain premises in the city where she worked, following injuries from a fall sustained when a defective bannister gave way. She later died, not from those injuries, and the appeal was carried on by her brother for out of pocket expenses in connection with Sophia Dymond's injuries. Norman Whittaker appeared for the appellant and F. C. Elliott for the respondent.

While Vienna was showering honors upon Ludwig van Beethoven, a short, bespectacled youth in the same city was creating some of the world's finest songs and symphonies against the odds of poverty and neglect. He was Franz Peter Schubert, son of a Viennese school teacher, and himself a teacher.

Born in 1797, Schubert quickly displayed his genius as a composer. While Beethoven carefully completed one composition, his young contemporary wrote dozens, dut of which a few were certain to be worthy of world fame. In one day, it was said, he composed eight songs of the type that made him famous.

Lack of recognition, the overshadowing renown of Beethoven and poverty kept Schubert in a secluded atmosphere. Despite a sick body, he wrote profusely. Poverty and hard work, however, sapped his strength and he died, in 1828, at the age of only thirty-one.

His portrait appears on one of the stamps Austria issued in 1922 in commemoration of its great musicians.

One start can cause more engine wear than climbing Mt. Washington

MT. WASHINGTON is the highest peak in the Northeastern United States. Mountain climbing is hard on your engine, but your daily starts cause far more wear.

3/4 of your Engine Wear is Caused by Starting

AUTOMOTIVE ENGINEERS state that approximately three-quarters of engine wear can occur in the starting period. To cut down this starting wear, you need a fast-flowing oil, one that starts the moment you step on the starter.

With a slow-flowing oil, when you start, over 100 closely fitting parts of your engine rub together "dry"-of lubrication.

New Fast-Flowing Oil Checks Starting Wear

Shell engineers have produced a new oil that's fast-flowing for starting, yet tough so it holds its body under high heat and resists breaking down into sludge and carbon.

Further proof that 'Phyllosan' tablets give progressive benefit

In 1933, Mrs. — was "nearly bedridden". She tried 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets. Gradually she recovered until she was able to walk freely without a stick. Soon she felt more than 10 years younger! She still takes 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets and is thoroughly well and active.

Read Her Letters:

THEN—"I feel so grateful for the recovery I have made owing to the steady use of 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets. I was nearly bedridden. Now I can walk freely without the help of a stick, climb the hills and enjoy life. I certainly feel more than 10 years younger."

TO-DAY—"I am still taking 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets three times a day. They have done a lot for me and the claims you make for them are more than justified. I know they saved me from being bedridden. And especially do I value their power of building up the nervous system and keeping me alert. I am very active and get out every day." 23

Many people, having once proved the efficacy of 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets, continue to take them from time to time for their vitalizing effect. They find that two of these little tablets taken regularly three times a day help to keep them in vigorous health and assist in maintaining youthful vitality.

Clinical experiments have proved that 'PHYLLOSAN' tablets help to revive the vigor of bodily functions. They stimulate appetite and food absorption, give increased vigor to nerves and brain, and increase the physical and vital forces of the body.

And it is so simple! Just two of these tiny tablets three times a day before meals. Take them regularly. The results will encourage you highly.

'PHYLLOSAN' tablets are prepared according to the formula and under the direction of E. Buergi, M.D., Professor of Medicine at Berne University.

FINANCES IN OAK BAY GOOD

Financial Statement Indicates Favorable Municipal Position

Tax receipts in Oak Bay this year are $6,000 ahead of last year and there is every indication the council will complete the year in a favorable financial state, it was indicated by an interim report presented yesterday.

The report covered financing for nine months of the year and estimates of all departments were well within 75 per cent of their respective estimates.

If tax collections continue at the rate they have been coming in the estimated 85 per cent of collections will be realized.

One encouraging feature of this year's report was that the council has as cash on hand about $5,000 more than at the same time last year. This has been due to the general move throughout municipalities this year to get taxes paid earlier to avoid penalties.

All expenditures are well in hand and the situation generally looks encouraging, the figures indicated. The principal works expenditure this year has been for the new Beach Drive sidewalk, which has been completed from Newport Avenue to beyond the intersection of Bowker Avenue, at a cost of $6,500.

NO UNITY ON BOWKER CREEK

Oak Bay Declines Action on Development Plan in Flood Area

Little prospect of any united plan on Bowker Creek development this fall appeared at an Oak Bay Council meeting yesterday when a letter was received from Saanich dealing with the matter.

The council declined to take official cognizance of a letter from Saanich asking what Oak Bay was prepared to do in regard to its share of Bowker Creek improvement.

Oak Bay replied that it had never had official communication from Saanich on this matter, and attention was also drawn to the fact that Saanich was not represented at two meetings in the City Hall when Bowker Creek development had been discussed.

It was also pointed out that Oak Bay this year had already improved the creek outlet and cleaned out the section that was within the municipal boundaries.

SPEAKERS ASK FOR NEW DEAL

B. A. McKelvie and H. D. Twigg Heard in Oak Bay on Island's Case

Claiming that $100,000,000 of British Columbia's public debt represented patronage and waste, and arguing that Vancouver Island produced enough revenue to become a self-governing province, B. A. McKelvie, managing editor of The Victoria Colonist, presented his case for a new deal for the island at a meeting in St. Mary's Hall, Oak Bay, last night under the auspices of the Vancouver Island Provincial Association.

H. Despard Twigg, organizer of the association, spoke on the same subject.

The people who provided the campaign funds called the tune of expenditure, Mr. McKelvie claimed, and this tune was detrimental to the island.

The island and the mainland must have separate fiscal policies if the island was to progress, he said. For years now the island had been living on its capital assets. At the present rate of cutting he doubted if the accessible island timber stands would last another twenty years. No appreciable part of the revenue derived had been used to replace these assets.

Mr. Twigg declared that under Section Three of the British North America Act the federal government had power to decrease, increase or alter any province with the consent of its Legislature. British Columbia should be diminished to the extent of the island territory.

Within the province there were government buildings valued at $24,000,000, of which only $3,400,000 stood on the island, he said. Victoria was compelled to use an old courthouse condemned by grand juries, yet Prince Rupert had a $541,000 structure, Vernon a $213,000 building, Williams Lake a $31,000 courthouse and Kaslo one costing $35,000, all smaller centres than Victoria.

Display of B.C. Fruit Planned

The British Columbia Government will occupy the central exhibit space in the Winter Fair to be held at the Bay Street Armories the week starting October 26.

The government intends to display British Columbia fruits, it is understood, and a special effort from the growers to show the value of island markets for island products is expected.

The Tourist Trade Development Association, sponsoring the fair, estimates that already over 5,000 tickets have been sold. The presale of tickets is being undertaken by 500 school children, vying with each other to win one of the bicycles, wagons, bats or other prizes offered to those who sell most tickets.

An offer of $400 for two lots on Cadboro Bay Road, assessed at $550, from L. U. Conyers, was refused by the Oak Bay Council yesterday.

A donation of $10 to the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club for its forthcoming gala was authorized by the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

The Saanich Council yesterday evening declined a proposal from the City Council to bear half the cost of installing a street light at Carroll Street and Burnside Road.

New Silhouette For Fall Is Flattering

Guide Week Will Be Marked

Programme Will Focus On Girls' Movement

Canadian Girl Guide Week is being observed throughout the Dominion next week in an endeavor to focus attention on this most important educational and character-building movement.

The Victoria programme will open tomorrow evening with a coast-to-coast radio broadcast between 5.30 and 6.30 o'clock in which Hon. Ernest Lapointe, acting premier; Mrs. H. D. Warren, chief commissioner; Mrs. Herbert Bruce and Miss Winnifred Kydd will speak and the Sixty-first Toronto Guide Company will sing.

Throughout the week, the 621 Guide communities in Canada will give displays and demonstrations of the special activities as arranged for each of the seven Guide days of the week.

Girl Guide week is being observed across Canada in a spirit of national co-operation and service by all sections of the big Guide family, which now numbers close to 50,000. Company and Brownie pack meetings will be open to interested friends, and a warm welcome will be assured any who wish to attend and see for themselves just why the children are so attached to their organization.

VICTORIA PROGRAMME

Saturday, October 17—The broadcast will be heard in Victoria between 5.30 and 6 p.m.

Sunday, October 18—Guides will attend the church services in uniform. As most companies are open companies, containing Guides of several denominations, the parties in the different localities will probably be small.

Monday, October 19—Day of service and citizenship. All Guides will make a special effort to find and do some extra good turn on this day, whether individually, by patrols or in companies. Anyone who has a job which could be accomplished satisfactorily by girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen years would be helping the Guides if they would communicate with the captain of their nearest Guide company and explain their desires.

Tuesday, October 20—Ranger companies, through the help of the Social Service and other welfare agencies will endeavor to find young people who might be glad to join an extension company or receive visits.

Wednesday, October 21—Guides will write to lone Guides scattered throughout the province. Brownies will prepare for the pack meetings on the Friday, to which parents and everyone interested are cordially invited to see the Brownies learn to carry out thir promise to help others, especially those at home. Brownies will show their skill in laying tables, cooking, darning, knitting and other handicrafts.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Thursday, October 22—By the kindness of Mrs. Alan Morkill, a twenty-first birthday reunion party of ex-Guides of the Gonzales and Lady Douglas Companies will be held at 750 Pemberton Road at 8.15 o'clock. The local association will be the hostesses, and during the evening Mrs. Morkill will show lantern pictures of her recent trip as Canadian delegate to Stockholm and Denmark.

Friday, October 23—International day. Mrs. Alan Morkill, provincial commissioner, will show lantern slides of Guiding all over the world, both within and without the British Empire, and speak to the Guides on the international value of the friendships which can be formed among Guides of the world. Brownies will hold special open meetings, to which parents and all who are interested are cordially invited. The packs meet from 4 to 5.30 o'clock.

Saturday, October 24—Open air and health day. The east Victoria district is planning demonstrations of indoor and outdoor cookery by the Guides, probably at the old Oak Bay High School. The north and west districts will go out hiking to study woodcraft, map making, etc.

Companies welcome interested visitors to their meetings at all times, and, during this week, such visitors will be made particularly welcome.

Angus Campbell's Fashion Show Reveals "Swing" Trend; French Copies Are Glamorous For Evening Wear

Clothes this season will have a personality. Whether one swings along the street in a wide-skirted, short suit or dances at night in an Empire gown there is to be a decided atmosphere of femininity and allure about the new silhouette.

And the universal appeal of the new silhouette was effectively demonstrated at the fashion show of fall and winter styles which drew a "capacity house" to Angus Campbell's Limited, yesterday afternoon. The "skimpiness" so characteristic of a few seasons ago has disappeared; and skirts either swing to the rhythm of the walk, or are full and swirling, corded and banded around the hem to lend grace to the dance, while cleverly concealed drapings and demure little bodices add piquancy to the figure.

Necklines, too, are lower, displaying the contour of the shoulders, and velvet bands and pleatings, shirrings, cordings, dazzling brilliants, glamorous materials and flower trimmings all add to the total of alluring femininity. Full scope for this new and lovely line is given in the evening gowns, and a group of French and New York gowns shown yesterday evoked exclamations of admiration from the spectators.

OF FRENCH INSPIRATION

A Lucille creation, worn by Miss Lilian Michaelis, turned back the pages of history, for it was fashioned of black broadcloth, on long sweeping lines, the shoulder straps of sapphire blue velvet and the top of the decolletage outlined with stiffened loops of the velvet.

And, talking of history, unhappy Mary of Scotland inspired the quaint formal afternoon gown of ruby velvet, worn by Miss Gertrude Partridge, with its square neck and brief puff sleeves trimmed with guipure lace, and tiny buttons stretching from the neckline to the hem.

After Molyneux was an alluring evening gown of black velvet, worn by Miss Brinkman, the outstanding feature being the huge stiffened sleeves of quaint shape, while another dinner gown in this group was a princess model of pale rose taffeta, the wide skirt stiffened from hem to knee with cordings, similar cordings giving a balloon-like appearance to the short sleeves of the accompanying coatee.

Very lovely of line, too, was the Alix model of orchid crepe, embroidered in a metallic design, with clever strappings joining the halter neck and the low decolletage at the back. The epitome of sophistication was the dinner dress of black velvet allied with gold hammered satin, the cleverly cut tunic being removable to show the smart formal gown beneath.

LACE STILL POPULAR

Although velvet and other glamorous fabrics are to the fore, lace still retains its popularity, and a handsome example of its appeal was the Lucill Paray model of parchment lace over brown worn by Miss Morrison, the revers of the graceful sleeved coatee being edged with brown squirrel.

Several lovely evening wraps were worn over these luxurious gowns, one of cerise velvet being diagonally tucked above the waistline, the sleeves showing the extended shoulder line, while a luxurious collar of white lapin added the final touch of chic.

Cire trimmings are a notable innovation on a number of the formal afternoon and cocktail frocks. Miss Ball modeled a fascinating ensemble of black velvet, the jaunty, peplumed coatee being removed to reveal a bodice of cire lace. Another black velvet gown had sleeves of black net over which silver drops fall in a sparkling shower, while a glamorous dinner gown of black velvet boasted long flowing sleeve-like draperies of net, edged with black sequins, sequin trimming also appearing at the neck.

DAYTIME WEAR

Daytime dresses show the tendency towards trimmings, one brown frock with a Russian tunic effect having green insets outlined with vermicelli braiding in brown, while another intriguing frock of green was finished with a tunic of all-over eyelet embroidery of the self material. Miss Knapton's smart black frock showed the extended, almost leg-of-mutton sleeve, and its blue trimming bands were edged with tiny nailheads of steel.

Coats and suits are luxurious and show the same swing trend. Fur is used on pockets, around hems and tunics, and on collars, while in some cases, as in a handsome model suit of black cloth and caracul, the fur even forms an oversleeve effect.

The Golflex frocks for street and sports spectator wear are as usual, beautifully cut, and have their own flair, while colors are luscious, wine-red, orange, henna and green being favorites. The newest knit-suits are also full of color, with lacy, openwork patterns to add interest to their wearing.

With the coats and street-frocks, hats just arrived from England and New York were shown. The English fur felts are lovely in color and novel in design, the beret worn by the Vimy pilgrims having inspired several styles, while the Glengarry influence is also seen.

W.A. Finances In Sound State

Restoration Fund Reaches Its Objective, Says Report

Finance occupied the major part of the agenda at yesterday's sessions of the Dominion Board of the Anglican W.A. at the Memorial Hall. Mrs. Donaldson, Dominion treasurer, bringing in statements regarding the bursaries, which are awarded to children of missionaries who are living in isolated and undeveloped districts far removed from schools and educational privileges. There are reported to be forty-six beneficiaries on this fund.

The pension fund is providing pensions to ten retired missionaries, including Dr. Eleanor Lennox. The report of the invested moneys showed that there are safe and satisfactory investment of the various funds, which bring in reasonable rates of interest.

The budget for the year commencing in November was brought in and approved by the meeting.

The Prince Rupert Coast Mission was voted the returns from the Book of Remembrance and also part of the collection taken at the public missionary meeting.

RESTORATION FUND

The Social Service report was being read by Mrs. Paul of Saskatchewan diocese. Mrs. Bethune brought in a very full report of the meeting of the board of management which was attended by six members of the W.A. executive. There was sincere rejoicing over the news that the restoration fund has met its objective, the Doxology being sung in thanksgiving.

The names of Miss Slater, Mrs. Law and Miss Kate Halson are to be placed in the Book of Remembrance.

Miss Phepoe brought in a report of the educational year in all the dioceses, which contained much valuable information, and is being considered at this morning's session.

Two new officers were elected to the executive: Mrs. Chamberlain, vice-president for Central Canada, and Mrs. Sparling as secretary of Church Boys' League.

Prayers were read by Miss Phepoe and a telegram of greeting was received from Bishop and Mrs. Burd in California, expressing appreciation of the interest and help given to the Diocese of Caledonia.

A standing tribute was paid to a Dominion life member, Miss Fannie Jones, who has just passed away.

At noon Dean Quainton gave a devotional address. Luncheon guests included Bishop Sexton, Rev. Alan Greene, Rev. W. H. Gale, Dr. Connold, and Rev. Vernon Venables.

Mrs. H. E. Sexton and Mrs. C. D. Schofield were gracious hostesses to the Dominion board and other guests to the number of about 150 at Bishop's Close at 4.15 p.m.

After tea, the members and guests returned to the Memorial Hall, where a further series of motion pictures showing the work of the Columbia Coast Mission were explained by Rev. T. A. L. Connold, dealing with the work round the hospitals and the southern part of the coast territory, and this was supplemented by pictures shown by Rev. Alan Greene of the work done with the little boat, the Rendezvous, which is now in charge of Rev. Vernon Venables

Book Shower Meets With Success

About 250 books were donated by kind friends at the annual book shower and tea held at the Aged Women's Home yesterday afternoon. Throughout the afternoon visitors called and were welcomed, Mrs. William Grant, the honorary president; Mrs. W. L. Clay, the president, and Mrs. F. W. Vincent receiving the guests, assisted by Mrs. G. A. Lister and Mrs. A. D. Whittier.

Mrs. Harold Grant was convener of the tea arrangements, assisted by a committee comprising Mrs. D. C. Sabiston, Mrs. D. Scott, Miss E. O'Brien and Mrs. E. Bean, while others helping to serve were Mrs. C. Sabiston, Mrs. H. Sabiston, Mrs. A. Sabiston, Miss K. Erb, Mrs. J. A. Levy, Miss Betty Scott, Miss Cicely Vincent and Mrs. D. Stewart.

Many of the aged ladies attended the party and enjoyed tea with their old and new friends. Miss E. Helmcken, Mrs. G. Walker, Mrs. B. Brown and Mrs. E. Heddle were responsible for the beautiful decorations. The dining-room and sitting-rooms were gay with autumn flowers, the tea tables arranged with gladioli, Michaelmas daisies and chrysanthemums.

The staff, under the direction of Miss Robb, assisted the tea committee and also showed the visitors round the home. Much interest was shown in the larder, where rows of tempting jellies and jams, put up by the staff and much of it made from fruit given by kind friends were admired.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

Mrs. J. D. Hunter, convener of the list committee, met with the following members of this committee: Mrs. H. M. Cassidy, Mrs. Roy Angus, Mrs. A. V. Hamilton, Mrs. B. S. Heisterman, Miss Nora McDonald and Mrs. J. Cameron, on Thursday afternoon in preparation for the financial campaign to be held in November. Mrs. Cassidy and her special names committee are also meeting this afternoon.

"The Y.W.C.A. seems to be the answer to girls who want "Fine Ways to Top Off Days" during the winter months, judging from the 300 registrations in the various classes and clubs. Registrations are still open in the Monday Night and Thursday Night Clubs, also in the Craft Club and the afternoon badminton classes.

Some ninety girls invade the Y.W.C.A. every Wednesday evening to improve their badminton strokes or to "spring pep into their step" in the pep gym class. Both these classes are young women's classes, with Miss Ryan as physical director.

The Y.W. recreation room is fast losing its identity as the Dramatic Club converts it into a little theatre room and then the busy weavers, clay modellers, wood carvers and dress makers make it into a literal work shop. As a result great things are expected from both these clubs.

The cure for every scratch and bruise, to say nothing of the more serious common ailments, are being well learned by the members of the home nursing group.

A visit to a well-known photographer's dark room on Tuesday evening was the incentive for the Camera Club making plans to set up a developing room for their own use.

Thursday, October 29, is the date set for the "Spook Party." The Monday Night Clubs are looking after the refreshments and the Versatiles and Pirates the decorations and entertainment.

Margaret Lamble and Grace Hall are off to Vancouver this week-end to attend the Vancouver Y.W.C.A. week-end conference. The stay-at-homes are looking forward to vivid reports of all that happens at the conference.

The latest innovation in club programme is a choral club. Miss Kate Frances Ede, who has recently returned from Kobe, Japan, where she taught choral music, is to be the able director of this group. Further details will be published later.

Sunshine Camp Report Given

At the October board meeting of the Friendly Help Welfare Association it was reported by the camp committee that fifty-six women and 103 children, also forty teen-age girls, had attended the Fred Landsberg Sunshine Camp during the summer, and that almost all had gained weight. The camp remained open for only two months this year and the total inclusive cost per capita per diem was 64 cents, thanks to donations and assistance from various firms, private citizens and volunteer workers.

The treasurer's report for the month of September showed receipts by the association for its regular work of $378, and expenditures of $752.35. Part of this latter sum consisted of some August bills held over until September. N. F. Ferris, treasurer, reported favorably on the increasing contributions during the first two weeks of October, including a number of monthly subscriptions payable directly through the banks.

The general secretary's report showed that ninety-one families had received some form of assistance during September, fourteen receiving material relief and other services, while the remainder received service without material relief. A number of families were given second-hand clothing. During the month 150 office interviews took place and sixty-three visits were made, this number being lower than usual, owing to the fact that both case workers took part of their holiday in September.

The EXPERT'S TEST of face powder

You CAN MAKE IT NOW!

HERE is the famous "cling" test that face powder experts use—you can make it in a jiffy. Take a pinch of the powder you now use. Rub hard between your thumb and forefinger. So many powders quickly thin out, rub away and take a hard shine under this test. See what happens with yours!

Try the same test using Princess Pat, the only almond base powder. What a difference you'll see! It won't rub away—won't shine—remains soft, velvety, clinging. Experts know that the exclusive almond base makes Princess Pat stay on longer than any other powder. Millions of women know this too—and they know Princess Pat powder gives greater beauty.

Princess Pat powder makes the skin exquisitely smooth—without a "powdered" look. It imparts the natural, peach-bloom smoothness of childhood—gives that illusive, fascinating freshness that captures masculine admiration and brings you thrilling compliments!

Princess Pat powder is gloriously "shine proof." Even your nose remains perfectly powdered for hours. Your complexion is protected against coarse pores—is daily encouraged to become more velvety, more alluring. Remember, if you haven't used Princess Pat powder, you haven't used almond base powder; there is only one! It's a Princess Pat secret. Sold everywhere. Accept no substitute.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KAY DUNN, pretty young nurse, applies for a job as stewardess on Overland Airways. In the Overland office she encounters TED GRAHAM, veteran pilot of Trans-Pacific Airways, and largely due to his intervention, she is accepted for a trial period.

Two other girls, DORIS LEE and ALICE MILLER, are accepted on the same basis.

Graham, who flies the trans-Pacific route, is on his way to San Francisco. He shows Kay about the airport. When his plane arrives and he waves goodbye, she wonders if she will ever see him again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

"You do your job," the regular stewardess advised Kay on a training flight from the Central Airport west to Omaha, "and the men in the service will accept you as a buddy. We all know each other—our trials and tribulations, likes and dislikes, prides and jealousies even rivalries in love. But the whole crowd is loyal. It's us—the flying personnel—against the world."

The stewardess said this with an air of conscious pride. She added, "It's a case of every man for himself at times. You'll have to learn to take care of yourself and you never know whether you're to be stationed in Kalamazoo or Philadelphia or Ren."

Kay was grateful for such bits of advice. She did a great deal of listening and observing during the three weeks' training period prescribed for would-be stewardesses on the Overland Airways.

She learned her way about airports in a dozen different states. She learned to call hundreds of men by their first names. She met the great figures of aviation—casually, to be sure—but she learned to have tremendous respect for them. She met the pilots and the ground crews and picked up some of the phrases they used in technical talk among themselves.

At frequent intervals she and Doris and Alice got together in the boarding house near the Central Airport. They were each practicing on separate runs every day—north, east, south and west—under the tutelage of the regular air hostesses, and they had adventurous tales to swap.

They all hoped to make the grade and win a regular job, for they loved the air.

Alice Miller was the quietest of the three. About her delicate features which had had an air of tenseness, there was now a certain serenity—a serenity that came from within. Alice was becoming increasingly sure of herself.

This puzzled Doris at first. Doris always seemed to have a chip on her shoulder but she had exhibited thorough flying qualities and was bound to make good at the job of stewardess. It was she who got the first appointment—a regular run westbound from the Central Airport.

The day she returned from her first regular run she found Kay alone at the boarding house. Kay was doing the most obvious thing one did in port—stopping runs in silk stockings.

She looked up, smiling, when Doris entered. Kay was eager to hear Doris's experiences and her amusing chatter. In the three weeks they had spent together Kay had learned to know Doris for what she really was—a girl who was sentimental at heart and trying, by putting on a bold front, to hide the scars a sensitive soul had received. Doris had a heart of gold.

But she was scowling now. She flung her purse and gloves down and said, "Can you imagine what I saw in Omaha last night?"

Kai laughed. "No, I can't. You have so many amazing adventures!"

"I saw our little Alice stepping out with that Chuck Jones—remember him? I'll never forget him as long as I live! Told me I'd have to get rid of my 'excess baggage!' The conceited yellow headed heart-breaker! Snapping his little book of telephone numbers in every girl's face from Oakland to Newark airport."

Kay made no comment. The natty Mr. Chuck Jones only amused her. Since she had repulsed him, on her first flight, he had treated her with cool disdain. Perhaps he thought that some day she would rush to him with tears in her eyes.

Doris, however, was indignant. "He'll only break Alice's heart!" she prophesied. "And Alice deserves a better break than that. She's spent her life in a sickroom, looking after her mother. Alice doesn't know what men are like. Just wait until that Chuck Jones comes in from his run—I'll tell him a thing or two! That poor, trusting child—with a face like an angel's. And that big blond brute of a man comes along—"

Kay tried to distract Doris's thoughts. "It's strange how our paths cross. We all have different runs but we meet—sometimes in Omaha, or New York. And, of course, here at Central Airport. I would almost hate to go to the western division—"

"Like fun you would! When you get that far-off look in your eyes I know whom you're thinking about—that guy who puts into San Francisco Bay every two weeks or so, from the Pacific flight. You'd give your eyeteeth to go to the coast! You haven't heard—?"

Kay's eyes fell. "Not a word. It would be terrible if I didn't—make the grade."

"Don't think about that," Doris said. "Of course you will."

There was a rap on the door and Alice Miller walked in, her brown eyes aglow. She whirled in a circle, and then sat down beside them.

"Oh, I'm so excited! The most wonderful thing—"

Doris eyed her coolly. "So you've got the job! Well, I hope it's out on the west coast, somewhere where you'll never see that conceited Chuck Jones again!"

Alice's face clouded instantly and Kay saw that there were tears in her eyes. Alice merely sat there, saying nothing for a while. Doris and Kay exchanged anxious looks.

Suddenly Alice said, "But you don't understand! I haven't a job and I don't want one. Chuck and I were married today."

Doris's chin dropped. "Well, of all things—Married!" All at once she broke out into loud laughter. She stood up and slapped Kay on the back. "The fish! The sap! The poor simpleton. He has a hundred names in his little book and he—"

Alice faced her indignantly. "They didn't mean a thing to him. Oh, I love him!"

But Doris's laughter continued unabated. "To think—a meek little girl comes along—madonna features—pretty little hands—plainly dressed—and Mr. Chuck Jones falls for her, hook, line and sinker. The sap! Men are all saps! They think they are ladykillers and they turn out to be softies—harmless little lambs. Oh, this is slaughter."

Alice was a little indignant. "We've just found the most adorable little apartment only two blocks from here. Of course it's furnished—that's the only kind we can afford now. But I know how to keep house and we're going to save our money so that, before long, we can have a place of our own—"

This speech sobered Doris somewhat. Evidently young Mr. Chuck Jones had some qualities she had overlooked. He and Alice had looked beyond the honeymoon, were soberly making plans, taking on responsibilities.

Kay got up and crossed the room to kiss Alice on both cheeks. "I wish you all the happiness in the world!" she said.

Surprisingly, Alice burst into tears. "But I'll miss you so! You'll be way out there—"

"Haven't you heard? Don't you know. It was on the bulletin board. You've been appointed to a position in the western division! You're to go to the coast tomorrow!"

Kay could scarcely believe the words. Nevertheless she had a clear picture of what they meant to her. Ted Graham was out there. Ship Harbor was the home base of the trans-Pacific flight!

There was a chance — surely a chance — that she would see Ted Graham again.

WAS AT SIEGE OF LUCKNOW

C. G. Palmer of Duncan Celebrates His Eighty-ninth Birthday

Duncan, Oct. 16.—C. G. Palmer yesterday celebrated his eighty-ninth birthday at his home on Maple Bay Road, Duncan. Mr. Palmer is the oldest survivor of the siege of Lucknow, and well remembers the frightful events that took place when he was in India. Mr. Palmer was born on October 15, 1847.

He was a director of the Cowichan Creamery for a number of years and president of the now non-existent United Farmers of B.C. in 1917.

He was also councillor for North Cowichan municipality from 1914 to 1918, and police commissioner from 1915 to 1924.

Saanich Law Governs Cows

A by-law to counteract any undesirable circumstances which may arise from a recently-passed city ordinance prohibiting the keeping of more than two cows on a city lot, was given preliminary readings by the Saanich Council yesterday evening.

The regulation will also prohibit the keeping of two or more goats or cows without special permission from the council, under similiar conditions to which such practice is prohibited in the city.

Following the approval of the city measure, the council wanted to guard against the removal of those affected by the city law to Saanich. For the time being the by-law has been made non-operative in Wards Five and Six, the rural areas.

Oak Bay Relief Roll Declines

While relief costs this year are slightly ahead of last year's there has been a slight decline in the number of persons dependent upon relief, it was indicated in a report to the Oak Bay Council yesterday.

The total expenditure to date is $9,015. Last year it was $8,700. In September, the number of family heads and dependents on relief was 104, while last year this total was 142. The increased cost has been brought about by the fact that more has been allowed relief recipients by the municipality.

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CONFERENCE

Anglican Group Delegates Meet at Nanaimo

More than 125 delegates and about fifty associate members attended the sixth annual B.C. provincial conference of Anglican Young People's Associations, held at Nanaimo over the Thanksgiving week-end.

Frank Bain of Vancouver, provincial president, presided at the sessions, which more than ever took seriously to task the paramount problems facing young people of today.

The enthusiasm and sincerity displayed by those delegates present was a marvelous tribute to the provincial executive and the committee in charge of the conference programme.

BISHOP OPENS CONFERENCE

The conference was officially opened by the Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia, who spoke glowingly on the opportunities of the young people of the church today.

Great appreciation was shown of the special addresses and lectures given at the conference by such people as Rt. Rev. H. E. Sexton, Bishop of Columbia; the Rev. E. O. Robothan of Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria; Rev. G. R. Greig of the Anglican Theological College at Vancouver; Rev. Mr. Alan Greene, superintendent of the Columbia Coast (Medical) Mission; Ben Drew of Vancouver, secretary of the C.C.M.; Gilbert Brewer of Vancouver and others.

In addition, addresses were warmly received at the annual banquet from Geo. Muir, acting mayor of Nanaimo; Rev. H. P. Napier of Quamichan; Hon. Geo. S. Pearson, Minister of Mines; H. Savage, M.P.P.; A. Green, vice-president United Young People upper island council, and others.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The annual election of B.C. Provincial Council officers was held on Sunday and resulted in the election of Norman Southcott of Vancouver as president; Ernest Gray of Victoria, vice-president; Miss Mabel Thorneycroft of Nanaimo, secretary; Miss Gladys Harton of Vancouver, assistant secretary; Gilbert Brewer of Vancouver, treasurer. A new office was created in extension convener, a department which formerly came under the active supervision of the vice-president. Charles Bunting of Vancouver was elected to fill this office.

Promotion and publicity was detailed to the active supervision of the vice-president, Ernest Gray of Victoria, with Miss Lenora Trickett of Victoria as editor of the council Bulletin.

Other members of the council membership include Clifford Wright and Jack Momford of New Westminster, Jas. Hurford of Alberni, R. Tiffin and Frank Bain (retiring president) of Vancouver.

The installation of the new council executive was held on Monday evening in St. Paul's Church, Nanaimo, by Rev. Canon H. V. Hitchcox, rector of St. Paul's Church; Rev. Harding Priest, western field secretary of the G.B.R.E., and Rev. T. W. Scott, chaplain of the Vancouver Local Council, assisting.

The Family Doctor

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

When a wound is infected, the physician will open the abscess, if he is able to find one, to provide drainage of the pus or infectious material that is retained in the tissues.

Dr. M. Fishbein

If, however, the infection is not localized—that is, not accumulated as an abscess in one place—it may not be desirable to open the area. The care taken after such a wound has been opened and drained, is of the greatest importance.

If the hand or leg is held motionless in a bad position for too long a time, scarring may take place which will make it impossible to move the fingers or toes, and may perhaps cripple the infected individual.

Abscesses affecting the lips and nose are now sometimes treated with the X-ray.

Small wounds are usually treated in the home with some of the common antiseptics. In discussing materials to be included in the family medicine chest, I mentioned tincture of iodine and mereurochrome.

Other antiseptics include the saturated solution of boric acid, hydrogen peroxide, solution of metaphen and solution of hexylresorcinol, in addition to the solution of chlorinated soda and cresol. Very strong antiseptics should not be used, except on the advice of a doctor.

Wounds must be washed thoroughly with soap and water. Then the disinfectant may be applied. After that, the wound may be covered with sterile gauze and the gauze suitably fastened to the wound. Sometimes it is best to use adhesive tape. One must be careful, however, in putting a bandage of adhesive tape around a limb. Make certain that the circulation is not greatly cut off as to increase the pain and prevent healing.

No one should attempt to sew a wound unless he has had medical training. If pus or infectious material appears, it should have prompt medical attention.

Some types of wounds represent unusual emergencies. When a small splinter of wood or metal gets into the skin, it is best removed by use of a needle which has been sterilized by being passed through a flame. Large splinters may be removed with a knife blade sterilized in a flame, or with forceps or tweezers, similarly sterilized, if they are available.

To avoid tearing the tissue, it is best to push the point onward and forward and to let the end of the fishhook follow the point. The barbed end of the fishhook may then be cut off with a wire cutter, and the rest of the hook easily withdrawn.

Whenever there is a serious wound of the skin and tissue caused by gunpowder, nails, splinters, or substances which may be contaminated by manure, soil, or clothing, doctors are likely to suggest the immediate injection of some antitoxin against lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is a serious condition with a high rate of fatality. It is better to be safe and take the antitoxin, if there seems to be any danger that the wound has been contaminated with lockjaw germs.

Alter Oak Bay Building Rule

Minimum Floor Area For Homes Raised From 500 to 800 Square Feet

Two important changes in Oak Bay zoning regulations were approved by the municipal council in the new draft of the zoning by-law presented yesterday afternoon.

After giving its approval the council ordered the draft forwarded to legal advisors for their consideration. If their approval is also given a public meeting will be called by Reeve F. R. Taylor at which public opinion on the draft will be heard.

Chief among the changes are regulations which increase the minimum floor area for any house in the municipality from 500 to 800 square feet and alter rules governing auto camps. In the various grade classes throughout the municipality the minimum floor areas are 800, 1,000 and 1,200 square feet.

By amendment to existing conditions the council obviated any possibility of the by-law permitting the construction of what may be classed as an auto camp.

The council also opposed any extension of the Beach Drive apartment district, between Broom and Beresford Streets. This was requested by four ratepayers of this region but seventeen others vigorously opposed such extension.

The main features of the by-law are the same and there have been no fundamental changes outside the alteration of the minimum floor area.

Letters to The Editor

GET ON THE LIST

To the Editor.—May I take this opportunity of drawing attention to all concerned that there is a limited time in which to register at the City Hall in order to be placed on the voters' list.

Young men and women, also householders who do not pay a property tax, but who do pay poll or road tax are eligible to vote at the coming municipal election, which takes place early in December. After October 31 it will be too late to register. Trusting in the interest of good government for Victoria, there will be a generous response by all to the various requests to register, also use, what we can not too highly prize, our franchise.

Generally speaking quite often governments fall as a result of a goodly number of the electorate neglecting their duty. It's surely time we all put our shoulder to the wheel. To those who have been taking responsibility of citizenship lightly, kindly get out and "help push," for we yet have many hills to conquer, 'ere our municipal house is put in order.

THE HAPPY CORRESPONDENT

To the Editor:—I had begun to notice that the favorite trick of your energetic Marxist correspondents was to resort to "persiflae" in the absence of any substantial arguments when lo and behold!—up bobs "Imprimatur" with the confirmation of the rule. Not being able to refute my statements, he pokes fun at the very idea of Communism being a menace! Imprimatur must be terribly happy.

"VIGIANTE."

THE DEITY

To the Editor: — Sagittarius complains that Christian nations use the name of their Deity in a thoroughly disrespectful manner, often in conjunction with a swear word; and contrasts this attitude with the respect and reverence shown by the heathens to their gods.

He is quite right; that great trinity, Mammon, Money and Power, should be given more respect by enlightened peoples. His appeal for assistance from our local "prophets," Scripture "searchers," anti and pro Communists, is useless. They are too much alike. All are too fuzzy-headed and busy with their own little private gods (close relatives of the above-mentioned) to bother with those of other individuals.

However, Sagittarius has, consciously or otherwise, included the solution in his own letter. Why not get advice from the heathens, or why do we not all become heathens? This seems simple and logical.

I believe the constellation Sagittarius (The Archer) is millions of light years distant. His particular vaporous job seems to be, aiming vaporous darts at vaporous targets.

COMMON CLAY.

OUR LOCAL PYRAMIDS

To the Editor:—It seems strange that none of our local historians have from time to time recorded the local wonders we have in Victoria. We can not all see the Pyramids, of course, but surely our modern architects are entitled to a boost.

Take, for instance, the history of our grain elevators. I have enjoyed very much studying these ancient wonders.

They have undoubtedly contained wheat or corn in the past ages but it is doubtful if the holes were made by mice or woodpeckers, however, with a powerful glass I found traces of feathers, so the woodpeckers have it.

History should record that he camped ages ago on the site of the present woolen mills, and that to stimulate business a layette was offered by the mills for the stork's first visit.

However, after one peek at the mills this wise old bird beat it east, and it was a long time before he had the courage to return here and take treatment at a taxidermist's, before retiring to his present abode. Come up and see me some time, Victorians.

The cold storage ruins, another marvel of building science in which scales were found, indicating fish may have made their abode there, but old-timers here tell me it is possible they came down the water mains and stayed during the mild winters returning home to spend the summers in peace in the mountain lakes. This theory seems to be quite reasonable if I know my fish.

VANCOUVER STREETER.

COMMUNISM AND FASCISM

To the Editor:—Imprimatur's policy (as it is for many supporters of Communism) to pour ridicule on such statements as in Vigilante's letter, is a very futile one. Too many know the truth—Tabian's support is well known, and as it means financial support, is very much welcomed and encouraged. It is equally well known that the Communist policy is utterly destructive to the workers themselves—their union and sacrifice is necessary for their relentless purpose—to bring about civil war. Communism prates on a platform of Christian ethics, yet justifies lying, treachery, intimidation of the workers into striking class hatred, propaganda as expedient and necessary to attain their objective—a Soviet State—instead it will bring Fascism.

ALICE COLCLOUGH.

ANSWERS PRO PATRIA

To the Editor:—In your issue of October 8, "Pro Patria," to whom I'll refer as P.P., wants to know if I am German, Communist or anti-British. For his information I am able to produce an "exemplary discharge" after five years' service as a mounted constable in a city police force under the British flag. To be loyal to the ideal of a federated world under one flag made safe by a general police force is what seems right to me, and should transcend all prejudice in regard to race or color. Let's leave it to Hitler to persecute human beings on account of their racial origins.

P.P. asks, when I stated that Canada should draw closer to the United States, for some day she will have to look that way for future protection, if I am speaking for my "very small self." Now, isn't it humiliating to think that the population of this "great and glorious" country has stood practically still for twenty-five years? Where is our natural increase? Most of them, after being educated here, are doing very well in the United States, where they are much more content than they would be in their native land, riding the rods or wasting away in unemployment camps.

If the crime menace across the line is as awful as our super patriots would have us believe, one would think that our lost ones would stampede for home so fast they couldn't be seen for their own dust. (It is only natural for 120,000,000 people to have more crime than 12,000,000.) As regards the disloyalty charge hurled at me; well, if a statement like the above, re drawing closer to the United States, is disloyalty, then all I can say is, what next? Must a man throw away his intelligence to be loyal?

England has a full-time job in India, Palestine, Egypt and the Mediterranean. If Japan attacked could England save us? No. Would the United States allow the Japs to land? No. Would we be glad of their help? Yes. And in regard to those great western markets (under capitalism markets are dependent on military power), would it be wiser to co-operate with the States or compete against them?

Yes, I realize that, as P.P. states, Great Britain planted her flag here 100 years ago, but we know that to do so she had to first pull down the French flag. I also realize that no matter how much armament we may possess, unless we reform our present state of society, with its poverty, social disease, lack of birth control, insanity, feeble mindedness, etc., it will be only a matter of time when some hungry Attila will swoop down and destroy our flag (provided we ever have one).

P.P. states: "Do I wish to forget my heritage?" That makes me smile. What heritage has the ordinary man got, when a few "big shots" own and control, for their own profit and satisfaction, the means of life through which the common people must live? The working man's heritage is nothing to boast about here, and as regards the one hereafter, to which he has been taught to look for consolation, well, science has shot it so full of holes that enlightened, intelligent people are not concerned about it any more.

P.P., like many of your correspondents, does not sign his name, and I have no right to chide him for this; but doesn't it seem tragic that after 10,000,000 lives were sacrificed for "freedom" that a man is not yet free to sign his own name to a public letter?

M. E. BIRD.

Scottish And Bays Ready For Opening Rugby Tilt Tomorrow

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

HOCKEY is as firmly established in England as it is in Canada. That means, of course, that the Old Countrymen know a great game when they see it, and it is history how they pack the arenas for their games. True, they have yet to breed and develop their own boys, but they can be depended upon to do that, too, in due time. Secretary John F. Abram of the Hockey Association over there, has a dream which he hopes shortly to realize. It is to have Canada and United States amateurs play off each March for the championship of America, the winner to go to London to meet the British champions. That would make it worth while to play on a national championship team.

* * *

He has already made the suggestion to the Canadian and United States bodies. Undoubtedly it would be snapped at only at this stage of the hockey education of the world Canada would be supplying practically all the plyaers for the three countries. That situation is likely to persist for some years, too. And it is no secret that both England and the United States have snapped up most of the best senior Canadian players in sight.

* * *

This winter, however, a tournament will be held at Harringway, February 17 to 27, in which the Olympic champions will defend their world title and the European championships will also be decided. Canada is expected to send over its last year's Allan Cup winners from British Columbia.

* * *

And if there is any doubt as to the complete education of the hockey man over there it may be mentioned that the boys are proposing to indulge in our play-off system at the end of the season. Only they would divide their teams into two groups which would at least give more excuse for play-offs than we have in this country, where all but one or two dead ones are eliminated in the regular schedule and the rest battle away merrily for what gate receipts are in sight.

* * *

Owing to its remoteness, Australia's accomplishments in the sport world are generally overlooked as the parade goes by year after year, yet the Aussies are one of the greatest sporting people in the world, and some of the records they have established are amazing. Horse racing is perhaps their greatest sport. To it they have made such major contributions as the totalizator, the starting web and the skull cap for jockeys. Cricket, soccer and Australian football are their other big sports.

* * *

On January 3, 1933, an all-time record for attendance at a cricket match was set in Melbourne, when England and Australia drew 68,180 paid admissions. The all-time cricket "take" record, however, was set at Sydney in 1928, when the England-Australia match brought $31,038 rolling through the ticket windows.

In ratio to population, the Victorian Football League which has eleven teams in Melbourne and one in Geelong, draws a larger attendance than any other sport anywhere. The season lasts eighteen weeks and the total attendance is around 1,700,000 annually. Australia's adult population is approximately 3,000,000 and the country's annual paid attendance at all sports events is over 35,000,000. That means that on the average every adult Australian attends 10.5 sport events each year. Similar figures are not available for Canada, but it would be surprising if they were even half as good.

Women's Tourney At Oak Bay Links

Next Tuesday at the Victoria Golf Club a women's par competition will be held, with twenty-two entries. Competitors will arrange their own starting times.

The draw follows:

Mrs. E. P. Gillespie and Mrs. Sheffield.
Mrs. Watson and Mrs. King.
Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Tyhurst.
Miss M. Campbell and Miss Prior.
Mrs. Philbrick and Mrs. J. H. Wilson.
Mrs. Hadley and Miss G. Irving.
Mrs. Godfrey and Mrs. Macdonald
Mrs. Lay and Mrs. Tomalin.
Mrs. Todd and Miss Fitz-Gibbon.
Miss Jones and Mrs. Howard.
Mrs. Paterson and Miss Benson.

Old Rivals to Clash Again at Macdonald Park

Intermediate Matches On

Two clubs which kept the spark of rugby burning in the old days of play on the Willows marsh, send their 1936-37 teams against each other as the current senior rugby season opens at Macdonald Park tomorrow. Both squads are composite units, the highly-touted James Bay Athletic Association having drawn heavily on the disbanded Fifth Brigade, while the Canadian Scottish has brought in new blood from the Garrison.

The fixture, scheduled to start at 3 o'clock, will be the only senior match of the day, no fourth entry having been filed in the first division league.

On the lower pitch at Macdonald Park, the intermediate Scottish will oppose the intermediate Wanderers, while at High School grounds, Victoria College will stack up against the Fifth Brigade boys.

SHOULD BE STRONG

The senior fixture will be of major importance inasmuch as it will show the faithful just what the two "if" clubs have in the way of material. They should be exceptionally strong, provided the different forces they have amalgamated can work together smoothly.

The Navy, the other senior entry, will probably turn out in force to watch their rivals for the Barnard Cup.

On paper the Bays appear to have a slight edge in the attacking backfield, although the fullbacks appear to be stand-offs. Roddy McInnes will be last defence for the rowing club, while his successor as Victoria's rep fullback last year, Ted Colgate, will line up in the identical position for the Highlanders.

ADOPTED BACKFIELD

Plans call for the use of ex-Fifth Brigade three-quarters by the Bays. George Langdon, who showed well in the intermediate lists; Bill Halkett, former College back and a boy of some promise with the Gunners; Ken Fleming, ace broken field runner for the Fifth, and Alec Gaunt, formerly a forward on the same team, are tentatively listed for the line. "Buzz" Brown, stand-by of the Bays who has interspersed smart play with erratic performances in the last two seasons, will team up with Wally Stipe, Fifth Brigade scrum half, in the old rep combination behind the pack. Gordon Petticrew, Jack Croft, Bob Mair, Jack Ruttan, Brian Tobin, Chris Usher, Bert Simpson and Ronnie Burns should form an exceptionally powerful pack that should be able to keep on the ball.

SCOTTISH LINEUP

The addition of Ronnie McConnan to the Scottish backfield should be a material asset to the Highlanders, who are expected to use Bill Thompson, George Parker and John Forbes on the line. Alex Anderson, a youngster who might develop into a good halfback, and "Pincher" Martin, potentially smart ex-Garrison scrum half, complete the backfield.

Dan Doswell and Harry Eastham, formerly of the Fifth, rated as outstanding rep forwards, with Campbell Forbes and new and old Scottish talent, should provide plenty of punch in the scrum for the kilties. The team is completed with Sam Gardiner, Herbert Rowland, Ed Carter, Victor Moore and George Knight.

The Bays list Bob Dickinson as reserve, while Patterson, Morton and Speed are spares for the Highlanders.

Both intermediate fixtures should provide good entertainment with teams that were well up in the standing last year playing.

DIZZY DEAN RETURNS

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—Dizzy Dean returned to St. Louis today after a post-season jaunt to the Pacific Coast and stated he has done nothing so far with his 1937 contract with the Cardinals.

Lou Gehrig Is Most Valuable

Cleveland, Oct. 16.—Lou Gehrig, the "iron man" first baseman of the world champion New York Yankees and leading home-run hitter of the 1936 American League season, was named today by the Baseball Writers' Association of America as the "most valuable player to his team."

The association announced that its official junior loop 1936 poll gave the award to "Columbia Lou" with seventy-three votes. His nearest rival was Luke Appling, sensational shortstop of Chicago White Sox, who received sixty-five.

J. R. DUNLOP IS RE-ELECTED

Renamed President of Victoria Cricket Club; Other Officers Named

J. R. Dunlop, well-known Victoria cricketer, was re-elected president of the Victoria Cricket Club at the annual meeting yesterday evening in Spencer's dining-room.

F. Jordan was named vice-president while George Austin was elected club captain and A. J. Darcus vice-captain. Named captain of the B eleven was Hubert Lethaby while A. F. Mitchell and Captain J. H. Norton were appointed secretary and treasurer, respectively.

A resume of the club's activities during the 1936 season follows: Games played 33, won 18, lost 10, drawn 5, interclub matches 5. Largest individual score, A. J. Darcus 106 not out; most runs scored in one season, G. C. Grant 589; most overs bowled, F. Bossom 175; most wickets taken during season, A. J. Darcus 70; most wickets taken in single inning, A. J. Darcus 7; best bowling performance, F. Bossom five wickets for 16 runs; most costly bowling performance, A. J. Darcus, one wicket for 69 runs; total number of overs bowled during season 1,093, total number of balls bowled during season 8,744, total runs scored by club 4,210.

M.C.C. MAKES FINE OPENING

English Cricketers Dismiss Western Australia Eleven For 142 Runs

Canadian Press

Perth, Australia, Oct. 16.—Opening its tour of Australia, the touring Marylebone Cricket Club team outplayed a representative Western Australia eleven in the first day's play here today. The home players were dismissed for 142 runs, the Englishmen replying with 91 for one wicket when stumps were drawn.

G. O. Allen, English captain, and Kenneth Farnes, Essex fast bowler, were chiefly responsible for the visiting team's success. The former dismissed three players for 32 runs and Farnes captured a similar number of wickets for 35.

Confident batting by C. J. Barnett, Gloucestershire pro, paved the way of the M.C.C.'s good start. He made 54, hitting one six and eight fours. R. E. S. Wyatt, Warwickshire's skipper, played cautiously and was not out at the close with 14.

Taafe, West Australian player, in trying to stop a hard cut by Barnett had a finger broken and it was found necessary to amputate it at the tip.

DUNCAN GOLF

Duncan, Oct. 16.—Miss Deta Peterson was the winner of the monthly medal played on the links at Duncan on Wednesday afternoon with a net score of 78. Mrs. C. C. Wright was second with a net 79. Others taking part were Mrs. P. G. Aldersey, Mrs. W. Prest, Mrs. H. N. Watson, Mrs. J. Longbourne and Mrs. Boyd-Wallis.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

UNDER PAR PUTTING

While smashing the course record with a brilliant sixty-three at Pinehurst, N.C., George T. Dunlap Jr., is believed to have set an all-time record for tournament putting.

Engaged in the finals of the 1934 Men's North and South Tournament against Donald Parsons, he actually required less putts for the round than the number of holes played! On the first seventeen holes Dunlap used his putter only fifteen times, holing two twenty-foot chip shots from the edge of the sanded areas which serve as "greens" on the course. He missed only one putt in the entire round—on the eighteenth hole, sinking his next one for a total of seventeen putts!

THE REBEL MOON

More than three and one-half times as far from Saturn as her nearest sister satellite, Iapetus, Phoebe is the most remote of Saturn's nine moons. It is also the smallest, being only about 150 miles in diameter.

Discovered by the great American astronomer, Pickering, in photographs taken at Arequipa Observatory, Peru, it was at first believed that Phoebe was the only one in any group of satellites to move in a direction opposite to her sisters. Since then, however, it has been found that the eighth and ninth satellites of Jupiter also have a retrograde motion.

MALARIA

Marcus Varro, a noted Roman scholar and author, hinted at the disease producing qualities of swamplands more than 2,000 years ago in one of his books. Yet, strange as it seems, it was not until 1897 that clues were found to indicate that swamps fostered spread of disease.

This was first brought to light by Sir Ronald Ross, a British physician, who discovered that mosquitoes, a swamp-breeding insect, carry the dread malaria germs.

Even then the belief was not well established until about 1913.

Brains Most Important To Six-day Bike Rider, Declares Torchy Peden

Play Bigger Part Than Brawn In Opinion of Victoria Veteran Now Riding In Montreal Race; Describes How Smart Rider Watches for His Openings

Canadian Press

Montreal, Oct. 16. — Take it from Torchy Peden, brains are more important than brawn in this six-day bicycle riding business. And Torchy ought to know, because the Victoria rider has won more six-day grinds than any other Canadian cycler.

"In the first place," said Torchy as he massaged his leg muscles during a rest at Montreal's fifteenth semi-annual six-day bike race today, "the brain gets fagged long before the legs tire."

"That is what you have got to watch," he added. "If you are not watching yourself and the other riders you will come out of the fog to find yourself a couple of laps behind."

Bike racing, according to Torchy, is a lot like prize fighting. A rider has to watch for his openings just like a boxer and quite often the mental strain is so great that sleep is out of the question for the riders during the brief resting spells.

THE SMART RIDER

"The smart bike rider watches every opponent, making a note of what rider is lagging in the jams and when he sees a chance, he breaks away," Peden said. "Probably a team won't be able to lap more than three or four other units in one jam, but the next time you'll get the rest of the field if they aren't watching."

The trick, Peden maintained, is to knock them off one by one, all the time keeping one eye peeled that the smart riders do not do the same thing to you.

Smart riders do some real head work during their rest periods, Torchy said they go over the whole day's riding and try to figure out where they may have made any mistakes.

"Lose a couple of laps in the evening's jams," said Peden as he dropped back on his bunk, "and you spend the rest of the night trying to get them back in your mind."

Chinook Club Stages Dance

Sixty members of the Chinook Club of the V.S.I.A.A., their wives and friends, gathered yesterday evening at the Anchorage, Brentwood, for a supper meeting and a dance. President Frank Moore was in charge.

Eaud Ray and his partner proved a hit in the old-time numbers.

Following a sit-down supper, each person, on request of the president stood up and introduced themselves to the meeting.

Charlie Clarke acted as master of ceremonies.

It was decided to take the Chinook Club's scales down from McKenzie Bay for winter, have them renovated and checked, ready for use next spring. Secretary Bill Rowe was instructed to write to Percy Stacey, at the Goldstream end of the inlet, and express the thanks of the club for the emergency float he erected in McKenzie Bay.

BADMINTON HEADS NAMED

Dr. Arthur Poyntz and H. B. Witter Will Again Guide Association

Well-known players and ardent workers in the interests of the sport, Dr. Arthur Poyntz and H. B. Witter were yesterday evening re-elected president and vice-president, respectively, of the Lower Vancouver Island Badminton League at the annual meeting held in the Y.M.C.A.

Delegates were present from the Garrison, Y.M.C.A., Brentwood, Willows, Victoria, Civil Service, Saanichton and Hillcrest clubs.

Dr. Poyntz, in making his annual report, expressed his appreciation of the excellent co-operation on the part of the other members of the executive, which he felt had done much to account for the successful season enjoyed by the league. The president, in speaking of the coming campaign, expressed the opinion the 1936-37 playing term would be a busy one, with the possibility of new clubs in the organization.

The league was found to be on a sound financial basis with a balance in the bank. Members extended their hearty thanks to the retiring officers.

ENTRY CLOSING DATE

The closing date for the current season's play will close on Thursday October 29, it was decided, and those clubs wishing to enter the league are requested to forward their applications to Fred A. Jackson, league secretary, 1333 Fort Street.

Soccer Teams to Shuffle Line-ups

Allan Shields Sold to Amerks

Montreal, Oct. 16.—Allan Shields, hard - checking defenceman of Montreal Maroons in the National Hockey League, has been sold, in a straight cash deal, to New York Americans, the Maroons' management announced last night.

A native of Ottawa, Shields played his first National League games with the old Ottawa Senators. It was understood he will be used as a regular defence unit by the Amerks.

International Match Tomorrow Will Weaken Several Clubs in English First Division; Portsmouth Has Chance to Move Into Clear Lead

London, Oct. 16.—Called upon to supply players for the international match between England and Wales at Cardiff, many first division soccer teams will present re-arranged line-ups for tomorrow's games. Several clubs are further hit by injuries.

Leading clubs are faced with hard games, and Portsmouth has a good opportunity to jump into a clear lead over Derby County and Brentford. The three teams share top place with thirteen points each, but Portsmouth is the only one with a home game. The southerners meet Manchester United at Fratton Park and are expected to land both points.

Brentford will have three men at Cardiff and the weakened team may fail at Grimsby. Derby is in a similar predicament for its match against Manchester City at Maine Road.

JAMES RETURNS

In the event that all of England's players report fit for the international encounter, Charlton Athletic is expected to be at full strength for its tussle with Arsenal. D. Welsh, the Athletic halfback, has been chosen as reserve for the international eleven, but has been given permission to fly from Cardiff to London if his services are not required. Alex James makes a welcome return to the Gunners' attack, but Bastin will be missing.

Chelsea entertain Sheffield Wednesday at Stamford Bridge and hope to bring back Barraclough and Mills, who have recovered from injuries, Bambrick will probably fill the inside-left position.

The pace-setting Bury squad is not likely to make any mistakes against Doncaster Rovers in second division play. Blackpool, runner-up with thirteen points, one less than Bury, is at home to Burnley.

One of the feature matches in this league brings together West Ham United and Plymouth Argyle on the former's ground. The Hammers are bringing in Morton in place of Marshall at inside-left. The latter is suffering from minor injuries received a week ago. Milne is making his first appearance in the Argyle team.

Against Stoke City, Preston North End is playing an all-Scottish forward line. The Lancashire squad transferred Fagan from Celtic Wednesday and the other members of the attack are F. O'Donnell, H. O'Donnell, Maxwell and Douglas.

THIRD DIVISION

In the southern section of the third division, Luton Town and Bournemouth have a chance to pull ahead of the idle Cardiff City outfit. The former is at home to Watford, while Bournemouth play in London against Clapton Orient. For its match against Chester, northern section leader, Darlington will have the assistance of George Brown. The Leeds United captain has joined Darlington as player-manager.

Glasgow, Oct. 16.—Twenty Scottish Football League teams swing into the eleventh week of the August-to-April schedule tomorrow, but, unlike the English League, a leader has emerged with a comfortable margin. Although Aberdeen has a clear three-point lead over Glasgow Rangers and Celtic, the Ibrox Park squad — only unbeaten team in the circuit—has a slight edge. They have played only eleven games to Aberdeen's thirteen and Celtic's twelve.

The Scottish cupholders will take the trip across the city this week-end to meet the famous amateurs, Queen's Park, at Hampden. This contest always attracts a huge crowd and, although indications point to a Ranger victory, the amateurs can be relied upon to put up a strong fight.

Aberdeen also play away from home, but the opposition—Queen of the South—is not likely to cause the pacesetters much worry.

Fighting mad over a 4 to 0 drubbing received last week, Dundee is out to tumble Celtic at Dens Park. The champions are expected to have a battle on their hands.

Motherwell, in fourth position, one point behind the runners-up, are visited by the "giant-killer" of the league, Third Lanark, this week, and anything may happen.

Leaders in the second division have tough games. Morton, in the No. 1 spot, meets St. Bernard's in third place, two points behind; while Dumbarton, runner-up, meets Raith Rovers, tied with Ayr United and Cowdenbeath for fourth position. Cowdenbeath has a home game against Dundee United.

The A.O.F. Carpet Bowling Club will open the season with a bowling frolic Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

Harry Kent On Card Tonight

Will Tangle With Sandor Szabo in Main Tilt on Wrestling Bill

Victoria wrestling fans tonight will see one of the game's greatest attractions perform at the Tillicum gym in the person of Sandor Szabo. He will climb through the ropes for a bout with Harry Kent, husky Portland youngster, in the headline attraction of an all-star card.

Promotor Fred Richardson tried to secure the services of Kent all week, following his great victory over clever Pat Fraley last Saturday, but it was only last night that the local promotor was informed that the Portland grappler would be able to fill the proposed engagement. Leo Numa Anderson, who fought with Szabo last night in Vancouver, was originally slated to tangle with the Hungarian, but Kent will replace him.

The semi-main skirmish on the card will bring together Donald McIntyre and Chief Thunderbird, Saanich Indian, while the special event will see Fred Carone, Italian matman, and Louie Newman, Victoria man, battle.

The card will be opened by the appearance of a pair of local youngsters at 8.45 o'clock.

Chicago, Oct. 16 (Associated Press).—The upheaval which Owner P. K. Wrigley promised in an effort to strengthen his Chicago Cubs for next season reached down in the line today to Gilly Hasbrook, the bat boy.

Hasbrook, who held the bat retrieving job four years, was given his unconditional release. Manager Charlie Grimm is withholding the name of Hasbrook's successor until the winter meetings.

Wests And City Battle For Soccer Leadership Tomorrow

Local Teams In Important Clash At Athletic Park

Both Will Attempt to Retain Undefeated Records; Thistles Meet Esquimalt

Matches Start At 2.45 o'Clock

Leadership of the first division of the Victoria and District Football League will be at stake tomorrow afternoon when the Victoria West and Victoria City clubs meet at the Athletic Park. The kick-off is scheduled for 2.45 o'clock with J. C. Dowds as referee.

Second match of the afternoon will bring together Esquimalt and the Saanich Thistles at Bullen Park. Starting at the same time, the fixture will be handled by Al McKinnon.

When the Wests and City clash they will be attempting to retain unbeaten records. In matches to date, the Greenshirts have marked up victories over the Thistles and Esquimalt. The City have played two games, with a win and a draw as the result. The Redshirts whipped Esquimalt but played a scoreless tie with the Thistles last Monday.

Victory for the Wests will put them out in front by three points, while a decision in favor of the City would boost them out of second place into the top berth with a one-point margin over their rivals tomorrow.

CUP AT STAKE

In addition to playing for points in the league, the Thistles and Esquimalt will be battling for the Brunsdon Cup, played for annually between these two outfits.

Victoria West—Restall, Sweeney, B. Bell, Lorandini, R. Barnes, Sage, G. Bell, Scotty Stewart, Scotty Robinson, J. Okell, Morgan, J. Watt, R. Okell and G. Barnes.

Montreal, Oct. 16. — President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League said today governors of the league would meet October 19 at New York to discuss rearrangement of the 1936-37 schedule. February bicycle races at Madison Square Garden, New York, and the Chicago Ice Arena made changes necessary.

PATRICK'S ICE SCHOOL CLOSES

Seventeen Pupils at Winnipeg Secure Positions With Two Teams

Winnipeg, Oct. 16. — Lester Patrick's New York Rangers' third hockey school disbanded here yesterday two days ahead of schedule and the "Silver Fox of Manhattan" announced seventeen of his forty-three pupils came through their hockey examinations with honors to warrant another step in competitive hockey.

Almost a complete new lineup for New York Rovers of the United States eastern amateur circuit emerged from the school. Patrick named fourteen players, three of them Rovers last term, who would return to their homes to await the call to go to New York.

TO JOIN RAMBLERS

Albert and Kilby Macdonald, Ottawa brothers, and Murray Patrick, Lester's youngest son, will continue their hockey activities here, joining Philadelphia Ramblers' training camp, opening October 19.

"The 1936 school was the best balanced of any of the three I have headed," Patrick stated, "and I predict a bright hockey future for many players we are taking to New York."

Sydney Fenn, Trail, British Columbia junior champions, and Murdo McKay, Fort William, were the most promising of the juniors joining Rovers, Patrick said.

Gridders Clash On Many Fronts

Winnipegs-Regina Riders Will Battle Tomorrow in Final Tilt of Regular Schedule

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, Oct. 16. — Prairie rugby teams moved toward the play-offs today with conclusion of schedules in two leagues due tomorrow.

Blue Bombers, Winnipeg's Canadian champions, close the western conference season here with the injury-riddled Regina Roughriders, who hope to reduce Winnipeg's lead of four points in the standing.

The difference in the point-standing at the end of the regular season will be added to 'Pegs' score when the teams meet in the play-offs October 24 and 31.

The Saskatchewan Union finale will be played at Saskatoon with Moose Jaw Millers engaging Hilltops, who need only a win or a tie to capture the union championship and the right to meet the Winnipeg Regina survivors in the western semi-final.

Injuries suffered by first-string players in two games with Winnipeg last week-end have forced Calgary Bronks to cancel their exhibition game scheduled for tomorrow with the Montana School of Mines from Butte.

Ed. Rorvig, Cec. Holmes, Charlie Harrison, Hero Snowden, Gerry Searight, Tiny Lucid and Joe Turner are on the Bronks' casualty list.

Regina will be without the services of three regular players when they tackle Winnipeg here tomorrow, but their title hopes were cheered this week when Bill Brokovski, former University of Saskatchewan halfback who suffered a broken cheek bone in the first game of the season, turned out for practice.

Louis Chumich, 215-pound lineman from North Dakota State College, will not be able to walk for another week because of torn ligaments in his knee.

Bob Walker, former University of South Dakota lineman, has been out of the game since September 12 with a dislocated vertebra in his neck, and will play no more this season.

Winnipegs are rated, because of these injuries to Riders, to take the final game of the conference season for the champions are reported in fine condition for the final drive. 'Pegs and Riders in three games this season have won one apiece and tied the other.

Eastern Teams All See Action; Officials Will Make Final Ruling on "Imports"

Hamilton, Oct. 16.—Executives of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union—the Big Four of eastern Canadian football—voted here today, telegraphically or personally, on what was believed to be the final phase of the "import" trouble that has shaken the union for nearly a month.

The men behind the Big Four's powerful squads filed ballots to declare eligible or ineligible ten United States players banned by the league governors. The voting was on the eve of resumption of play in the Big Four and also the east's other senior leagues, the Ontario and Intercollegiate Unions.

Originally eleven players were ruled ineligible. Pat Ryan, however, who played with Montreal last year, will return to his home in the United States and his case will not be considered by the league governors, Indian club officials announced.

Also down for consideration was Hamilton Tigers' suggestion clubs using ineligible players in future play be barred from the league and whether Ottawa Rough Riders should be censored for using Tony Rosso and Stan O'Neill, two imports, last week.

Among the cases to be considered were those of Oke Olson of Montreal Indians, formerly Regina; Stan O'Neill and Tony Rosso of Rough Riders, Clarence Burt of Toronto Argos and Clem Faust of Tigers, all five who were recommended for reinstatement at the executive's last meeting and then turned down by the governors.

OTHERS BARRED

The other barred footballers are: Coach Johnny Ferraro and Pat Ryan of Indians, Tureman Painton and Jerry Brock of Tigers, Frank Tyndall of Argos and Lou Newton of Rough Riders. Montreal club officials declared they would not ask for reopening of Ryan's case and that the former Manhattan College halfback would return to his home shortly.

Coach Lew Hayman's only worry as Argos polished plays in preparations for tomorrow's game in Hamilton with Tigers was to find a man for the snapback position. Bruce Strange, the regular centre, and "Red" Vail, his understudy, still felt injury and illness effects and Joe Wright was not considered ready yet for a starting position after only a week's training.

Western University of London play McGill tomorrow, while Toronto Balmy Beach meet Hamilton Tiger Cubs. Ferraro declared himself ready to play Saturday with Indians in the game with Ottawa if the executive votes him eligible.

TABLE TENNIS LEAD SHARED

Dominion Life and Cellumaniacs in Deadlock For First Position

The Dominion Life Assurance Company trounced the champion Melrose team, 11 to 5, in a league table tennis match this week. The insurance men now share the leadership of the first division with the Cellumaniacs, who disposed of Chun Lee Sons' team, 15 to 1.

The celluloid spotlight, however, swung from the league leaders to two players on the Mount Douglas outfit, a former second division team. Renfrew and Bladen, who have only just made their debut in senior company, bearded the lion by putting Wilmot Browne-Cave, city champion, at the wrong end of the score. Last year Browne-Cave never lost a game.

Mount Douglas, after a slow start in the first division, showed their true colors this week when they defeated the Redwings 10 to 6.

LAWN BOWLING

An enjoyable evening was spent by members of the Burnside Lawn Bowling Club and their friends last Wednesday, when prizes were awarded to the winners of various club competitions held during the season. President A. W. Stewart prefaced the presentation with some well-chosen remarks, in which he expressed gratification at the showing made by Burnsiders in open, as well as club, competitions.

This year Burnside captured the following open events: Empire Day Cup, mixed triples; Barnard Cup, mixed rinks; Yarrow Trophy, men's doubles; Anscomb Cup, mixed doubles, and the coveted Cameron Nichol Cup, emblematic of the men's rinks' championship of Greater Victoria.

During the evening Miss E. Bowman in a charming manner delighted the gathering with two recitations: "Afternoon Tea" and "Little Batiste."

A dance and five hundred, in which Mrs. Johnston won ladies' first prize and Mr. Hancock won men's first prize, followed by refreshments served by the women's club, concluded an enjoyable evening.

St. Aidans and St. Albans juniors will clash in the opener of the Sunday School Basketball League tomorrow evening at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium.

In the intermediate B division St. Louis College and the Commercials will clash, while in the final game the Crescents and the Canadian Scottish are slated to take the floor.

MISS A. KEAST PASSES AWAY

Pioneer School Teacher Dies in Seattle; Funeral Saturday

Miss Keast was appointed to the teaching staff of the Girls' Central School in 1886, and remained there, under successive principals, until her retirement in June, 1931, a period of forty-five years. A woman of the highest integrity, she was always popular with her pupils and associates, and leaves a wide circle of friends, who will learn with grief of her passing. She had made her home at the October Mansions for many years.

The remains are reposing at the Sands Mortuary. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, after which interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Mrs. Miller encountered a rather unusual experience. She got a strike and reeled in her prize only to find it a cod with another cod hanging on to its tail. The combined weight of the two snapped the line before they could get them into the boat.

BOARD GIVEN WIDE CONTROL

New Milk Marketing Scheme For Fraser Valley Is Approved

A new marketing scheme for the big dairy industry of the Fraser Valley has been approved by the provincial government, conferring upon the Lower Mainland Dairy Board powers under the Provincial Marketing Act passed at the last session of the Legislature, it was announced today by Hon. K. C. MacDonald, Minister of Agriculture.

The new scheme was sought by the dairy board to substitute for the one started in 1934 under the provincial and federal marketing acts. The federal act has since been ruled ultra vires by the Supreme Court of Canada in a reference hearing leaving validity of the existing milk scheme doubtful.

The present milk board, consisting of W. J. Park, W. T. McArthur and T. M. Edwards, will remain in office until March 31 next year. In the meantime it has power to change its marketing arrangements in accordance with the new scheme, but must submit the whole thing to a vote before that date.

Powers to pool returns from milk sales, as provided under federal authority in the old scheme, are not included in the new one, but other powers are granted to enable the board to work out a stabilization plan.

POWER OVER DISTRIBUTION

It will have the authority to set up a central selling agency, and also, if it desires, to authorize this agency to actually purchase the milk marketed through it. In addition it has power to prohibit marketing of milk through any other agencies than the one or ones it designates.

Powers are also conferred to fix maximum and minimum selling prices for milk in all parts of the areas that is controlled. The board may collect licenses from producers, processers, manufacturers or marketers of milk, which will give it the funds to carry on the marketing plan.

As seen here, the new scheme gives the dairy board virtually sole control over the milk situation on the mainland. At the present time marketing is done through three agencies and the producers are at liberty to choose which agency they think can get the best price for them.

The scheme has been under consideration by the government for several weeks. The board sought renewal of its pooling powers, but legal authorities here believed it would endanger the scheme and eliminated this feature.

NO QUESTION ON VALIDITY

Judgment was reserved by the B.C. Court of Appeal on the appeal of officers of the British Columbia Coast Vegetable Marketing Board against the injunction restraining them from interfering with the transport of potatoes by Chung Chuck and Mah Lai from their Ladner farm to a place of shipment or storage for export.

A. Bull, K.C., appearing for the respondent Chinese, declared he considered the B.C. Marketing Act good. But it did not cover the case in question, which he said, related purely to the question of export, a matter over which the province had no jurisdiction.

R. L. Maitland, K.C., appearing for the appellants, Leslie Gilmore, A. W. McLean and A. H. Peterson, acting for the marketing board, claimed transport a matter within the powers of the act.

NOT GOVERNING EXPORT

The act, he said, was not aimed to govern export. But it did cover transportation of vegetables from one part of the province to another. It aimed at the regulation and control of marketing in British Columbia and, of necessity, did effect provincial handling of potatoes for export in so far as it required tagging for identification.

Mr. Bull cited the statutory clauses related to the governing features in relation to produce marketed in the province only. His clients were interested solely in export, he said.

Mr. Justice McPhillips said anyone transporting potatoes in the province could avoid any interference by the marketing board by declaring their produce for export only if Mr. Bull's contention were upheld. They could sell them in the province on the side, he suggested.

Mr. Bull contended it was up to the board's sleuths to catch those violating the law by selling in British Columbia. They had enough sleuths to do that work, he claimed.

INCOMPLETE TRANSACTION

"How can it be said that transport of potatoes from the farm to the place of shipment or storage preliminary to export was a complete act having its beginning and end in the province?" Mr. Bull asked, adding that it was just a step in the procedure of export.

Mr. Maitland noted that some things in the provincial act had been ruled ultra vires in the federal act. It was necessary, he contended, for somebody to have jurisdiction over such clauses.

ALD. WALTER LUNEY

My Boyhood Ambition

TRAIN DRIVER

Alderman Walter Luney is a successful contractor today because his mother frustrated his early ambition to become a train driver.

"When I was fourteen years old I went to Vancouver to study the brick business as an apprentice," says the alderman. "I stayed in a hotel where the C.P.R. engineers lived and I was anxious to get a job with them.

"One of the fellows finally gave me a chance as wiper in the roundhouse and I jumped the brick business to follow my first love.

"I was getting along nicely until my mother came down to the roundhouse and raised cain. You see there were several wooden trestles on the C.P.R. line then and a number of engineers had been killed. Mother thought of that and demanded my return to the brick business."

At the age of thirteen he was apprenticed to T. R. Cusack in the old Times building, but the indoor work did not appeal to him.

He followed the family bent when he entered construction, five generations of Luneys having been contractors.

Ald. Luney entered the council at the request of several business men and has found his work as an alderman exceptionally interesting.

Offer Prizes For Criticism

A first prize of from $15 to $25, according to merit, and other prizes of $10 and $5 will be awarded by the League of Nations Society for constructive and critical reviews of the Marquis of Lothian's Burge Memorial Lecture for 1935, "Pacifism Is Not Enough."

The essays should be typed and submitted to the secretary of the society at 1006 Government Street before January 2, 1937. Copies of the lecture may be obtained at that address. Competitors should give their age and occupation.

In making the awards, evidence of study on problems of world peace, thoughtfulness and constructiveness of argument, and language and style will be taken into account.

C.C.F. CAUCUS TO SPLIT UP

Winch Group Asks For Separate Quarters During Coming Session

The former Co-operative Commonwealth Federation caucus of seven in the provincial Legislature will be split when the House meets at the end of the month.

Mr. Speaker Perry said today he had received formal application from E. E. Winch, M.P.P. for Burnaby, for separate quarters for himself, Harold Winch, Vancouver East, and Mrs. D. G. Steeves, North Vancouver.

Rev. Robert Connell, Victoria, has notified the Speaker he will have a group of only four, including himself, instead of the seven at last session. Supporting him are R. B. Swailes, Delta; Jack Price, Vancouver East, and Ernest Bakewell, Mackenzie.

Mr. Speaker said the application of Mr. Winch would be met but just where the new quarters for his group will be found is undecided. The offices of the Winch group will bear the official C.C.F. name plate which will be removed from Mr. Connell's quarters.

These changes in sessional arrangements are the result of the sensational split between Mr. Connell and the provincial executive of the C.C.F. party.

An alteration in the seating of the opposition members in the House is also expected. Questioned on this point Mr. Perry said it would be discussed when the members arrive.

Mr. Perry will continue to recognize Mr. Connell as the official Leader of the Opposition because he commands the largest group on the left-hand benches.

"Y" to Sponsor Institute Here

With the object of training leaders in leisure-time activities, to discuss fundamentals and philosophy of leadership, and to demonstrate important branches of social recreation, the Y.M.C.A. Social and Educational Committee will sponsor a recreational institute here.

Led by W. R. Cook of the Y.M.C.A. National Council staff, Toronto, the course will have an important bearing on church young people's associations.

Mr. Cook is now in Alberta, his visit west being made possible by the University of Alberta, under whose sponsorship a series of similar institutions are being organized. Meetings will be held here on October 27, 28, 29 and 30, with the Y.M.C.A. defraying major expenses.

At the Atlas

PLAZA THEATRE

Motion picture fans who view the race-track scenes in 20th Century's "It Had to Happen," now at the Plaza Theatre, will never guess it, but they were all filmed indoors on one of the studio's mammoth sound stages.

Stables, paddock, part of the grandstand and a stretch of the track at Saratoga, were all reproduced for these scenes, which were forced indoors by inclement weather and the strict demands of a shooting schedule.

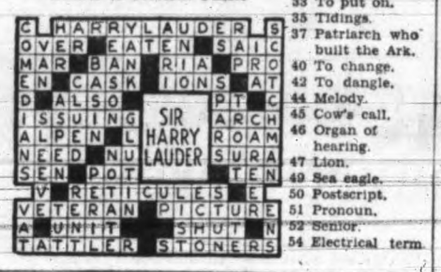
Answer to Previous Puzzle



ATLAS THEATRE

The eighth Henry to be King of England had six wives and this fact inspired the story told with tongue in cheek in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," starring Charles Laughton and showing at the Atlas Theatre.

Two of Henry's wives were named Anne and three were named Catherine, with variations in spelling. Two of them were beheaded—Anne Boleyn and Katheryn Howard, two of them were divorced—Catherine of Aragon and Ann of Cleves; Jane Seymour died when the Prince of Wales was born and Catherine Parr outlived him.

OAK BAY THEATRE

Leslie Howard's great stage triumph, "The Petrified Forest," is one of two fine pictures showing today and tomorrow at the Oak Bay Theatre. The scene is laid in a little desert gas station near the petrified forest in Arizona, and is the stirring drama of a man who has lost his soul only to win it back by giving his life heroically for love. Leslie Howard and Bette Davis are cast in the principal roles. Showing also is "The Payoff," a story of newspaper life.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Plenty of soap and water is Sheila Terry's favorite recipe for a good complexion. Miss Terry is seen in the feminine lead opposite Bill Boyd in the Republic release, "Go-Get-'Em Haines," now playing at the Columbia Theatre.

"As soon as I get up in the morning I wash my face with plenty of soap and warm water, rinsing it with cold water. This is also done several more times during the day and also before retiring," Miss Terry explains.

KAY FRANCIS AT DOMINION

Popular Brunette Has Leading Role in New Picture "Give Me Your Heart"

"Give Me Your Heart," now being shown at the Dominion Theatre, is a stirring drama of a woman's love and sacrifice taken from the play by Jay Mallory. Kay Francis has the stellar role, while others in the cast include Roland Young, Patric Knowles, Henry Stephenson, Frieda Inescort, Helen Flint, Halliwell Hobbes, Zeffie Tilbury and Elspeth Dudgeon.

"Ramona" Will Open Tomorrow

The cast of thousands featuring Loretta Young and Don Ameche, includes such brilliant players as Kent Taylor, Pauline Frederick, Jane Darwell, Katherine De Mille, Victor Kilian and John Carradine.

As long as two years ago, preparations were begun for the picturization of this bautiful love story. Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox studio production chief, spent nearly an entire year in search of the perfect Ramona. After covering carefully his own contract list and combing the entire field of free-lance players and "unknowns," he felt assured that he had found the right Ramono when he selected Loretta Young.

Cossacks Famed Singing Horsemen

The thirty-six "Singing Horsemen of the Steppes"—the Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus, will give one of their stirring programmes of Russian music on Monday, November 2, at the Empire Theatre.

Dressed in dark blue, their knee-high riding boots polished to regimental brilliancy, they make an impressive picture as they march on the stage and stand at attention in a semi-circle, awaiting the command of their leader.

Serge Jaroff, the conductor, has a dynamic quality that stirs these men to thrilling achievements. The audience will not see him beat time, but his expressive hands will move slightly upward and one finger may be laid to his lips. Or suddenly the arms will make an outward fling, and there will follow a fortissimo of stupendous power that will sweep the chorus to some tremendous climax. Their pianissimi are mere threads of tone that die away to silence.

Press Praise For Canadian Pianist

Augustus Bridle, outspoken critic of The Toronto Star, wrote of her appearance in Toronto, when she played with the Hart House Quartette:

"The piano gave the Schumann piano quintette the added charm of lovely luminous tone, perfectly patterned into a string instrumentation as the major decoration in color dominates the plan of a beautiful rug. The quartette has never had an artist who expressed more sensitively the true value of a solo instrument in subordination to the whole harmonic plan."

The seat sale for the event is continuing at the Kent Piano Co., Yates Street, until the night of the concert.

Industrials Advance In Active Trading on Wall Street Exchange

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 16.—The stock market today found rallying fuel in business progress and a wide assortment of industrials steamed up fractions to three or more points to new recovery heights.

The activity was pronounced in the morning, but selling flurries later tended to slow the pace. Buying expanded in the final hour. Transfers were around 2,000,000 shares.

Bonds, following a belated start, turned upward with stocks. Leading foreign currencies were quiet and slightly lower in terms of the dollar. Wheat at Chicago improved ¼ to ⅝ of a cent a bushel and corn was unchanged to down 1 cent.

(By H. A. Humber Ltd.)

Thirty industrials — 176.66, up 1.44.

METALS GAIN AT TORONTO

Toronto, Oct. 16.—Gains for base metal stocks were extended in an active mining share market during the early part of today's session but in the afternoon the greater part of the gains was forfeited.

Sherritt-Gordon touched its best level in years at $1.92. Profit-taking came along and the close around $1.88 was up 11 cents net. Noranda, Falconbridge, Sudbury Basin and Hudson Bay lost their gains and chromium closed off about 5 cents on the day. Ventures hit a new high at $2.60 and retained about 12 cents of the gain at $2.55.

Pickle Crow, Buffalo-Ankerite, McIntyre and O'Brien closed higher. Pioneer and Little Long Lac were down narrowly. Mild weakness developed in Siscoe, Beattie, Central Patricia, Chibougamau, McKenzie and Bidgood-Kirkland, while the tone was firm for Mining Corporation, Macassa, Hard Rock, Preston and Canadian Malartic.

Fractional Losses On Vancouver Mart

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 16. — Gold stocks as a whole moved fractionally lower in the morning session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange today, while oil stocks firmed and base metals, despite the higher prices for copper, lead and zinc, failed to show any sign of strength, or increased activity.

Pioneer gold was the feature of the market, dropping a further 10 cents to a low for the session at $7.05 and closing with a net loss from Thursday of 5 cents. The stock traded 1,700 shares.

In the remainder of the Golds, Bralorne did not trade but was quoted at $8.55 and $8.65. Premier declined 3 cents to $3.10, Relief Arlington brought 40, Gold Mountain 13, Kootenay Belle 86 and Minto 27.

Home Oil was a bright spot in the oil section with an advance of 5 cents to $1.01, and C.G.E. climbed 2 cents to $1.44. Royalite firmed to $30 in odd lots for a gain of $2 over Thursday's closing bid.

The base metal stocks were weaker also. Noble Five lost ¼ cent to 2¾ cents, and Pend Oreille was up 1 cent to 85.

Winnipeg, Oct. 16.—Irregularity prevailed in the wheat market today, with gains in the southern hemisphere opposing improved Canadian exports as a price-trend factor. Prices closed 1⅛ to 1⅞ cent higher, October at $1.14⅝, November $1.14¾, December $1.12¼ to $1.12⅜ and May $1.12¾ to $1.12⅞.

Session-long waves of selling lifted in the closing stages of the market. A sudden burst of buying boosted prices sharply to close near the day's top levels. The October future, in the late rally, touched the six-year mark of $1.14⅞ established Wednesday.

Erratic fluctuations were the rule throughout the session. Renewing their wheat buying halted yesterday, foreign importers took nearly 1,000,000 bushels of Canada's major cereal, but this support was barely sufficient to cope with heavy profit-taking.

Half of Argentina's wheat-producing area was reported to have benefited by rains, while precipitation also was said to have occurred in parts of Australia.

Liverpool closed ½d to ⅞d lower. Buenos Aires was off a half cent at noon, while Chicago and Minneapolis traded at fractionally lower price levels.

Increased Argentine wheat exports this week was a bearish factor. The total was 1,558,000 bushels, compared to last week's 463,000-bushel shipments. Australia cleared 1,526,000 bushels, against 791,000 last week.

Cash wheat spreads held firm, with demand evidenced for higher grades. Coarse grains trading was featureless.

Associated Press

Chicago, Oct. 16.—Late rallies in wheat prices that more than wiped out earlier declines went side by side today with rumors of big Canadian exports.

Vessel space for about 2,000,000 bushels of wheat to be shipped from Vancouver was talked of as having been taken. There was also gossip that American mills were buying wheat in Winnipeg.

Wheat closed firm, ¼ to ⅝ above yesterday's finish, December 1.16⅜ to 1.16½, May 1.15⅛ to 1.15¼; corn unchanged to 1 lower, December 93⅞ to 94, May 89⅞; oats ⅜ to ½ off, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to an equal gain.

BAR GOLD

Montreal, Oct. 16.—Bar gold in London unchanged at $34.77 an ounce in Canadian funds; 142s 1d in British. The fixed $35 Washington price amounted to $34.99 in Canadian.

PARIS EXCHANGE

Paris, Oct. 16.—Three per cent Rentes, 80 francs 20 centimes; 4½ per cent Rentes, 84.40.

INDUSTRIAL BONDS GAIN

Associated Press

New York, Oct. 16.—The general bond list showed a comparatively narrow shift today, but in a limited group of industrial convertibles a concentration of buying activities resulted in further substantial gains.

United States governments were inactive. Light trading kept prices at virtually unchanged levels, except for Polish 8s, which added a point or so and Cuban 5½s up a major fraction.

Russian Arms Sent to Spain

topped by the all-powerful rank given the Premier, as evidence of a final effort to rally the government forces, now that the capital's forces have their backs to the wall.

THOUSAND IN JAIL

Within the city, it was learned, 1,000 suspects had been arrested in the last few days, all accused of having Fascist sympathies.

In the area between Brunete and Villaviciosa de Odon, within twenty miles of the capital, the peasant squads labored feverishly to string barbed wire barricades across the path of the advancing Fascists.

RUSSIAN DECLARATION

Moscow, Oct. 16.—Dictator Joseph Stalin's declaration to Spanish Communists that the Soviets are "rendering every assistance in their power" to Madrid stirred widespread speculation today.

The Russian words used in Stalin's telegram to the central committee of the Communist Party in Spain left uncertain whether the dictator meant "every assistance" physically or within the legal bounds of the international non-intervention accord.

There was no official interpretation

READY FOR ACTION

In any event, however, informed sources believed Stalin's message was the most important indication that the Soviets are prepared for early action to change the present situation.

Charging Fascist powers are openly aiding the Spanish insurgents with arms, the Soviets now have come to regard the Non-Intervention Committee as a joke. They will quite the group shortly, confident observers believed, unless the alleged Fascist violations are halted quickly.

With Gen. Jose Varela's Insurgent Army, approaching Madrid, 8.30 p.m., Oct. 15 (delayed).—Pushing on steadily into gently rolling countryside, three columns of this advancing army are now within striking distance of Navalcarnero, just seventeen miles from Madrid.

In this less mountainous terrain the government will have even more trouble checking the insurgents' advance.

Today the Fascist push was virtually unopposed, except near Chapineria, where Col. Castejon's column from San Martin de Valdeiglesias was forced to bring up artillery to clear the mountain passes.

The village of Mentrida, northeast of Santa Cruz del Retamar, has been occupied by Fascists, and it was indicated there would be a union of the advancing forces near Villamanta, a few miles northeast of Mentrida.

ON MINOR ROADS

Gen. Varela's strategy is to use secondary roads instead of main highways.

STATEMENT BY FRANCO

Associated Press

Salamanca, Spain, Oct. 16.—Spanish bloodshed might have been prevented, General Francisco Franco declared today if the Madrid Socialist government "had not committed the terrible crime of arming the people against representatives of the national will."

The head of the Fascist Provisional Government and supreme commander of Fascist military forces outlined aims and principles of the insurgent movement at his army headquarters.

"The principal aim of the National (Fascist) movement was that of saving Spain from the ruin and destruction toward which reds of various shades were driving it," Gen. Franco asserted.

The Fascist commander predicted that if "our movement had been delayed, even a short time, a red revolution would have broken out" and the country would have suffered from an "orgy of looting crime and incendiarism."

TOLEDO BOMBARDED

Associated Press

Lisbon, Portugal, Oct. 16.—The insurgents' hold on Toledo is precarious and life in the Alcazar city is "intolerable," according to the correspondent of the newspaper Diario Noticias.

Throughout the night, said the correspondent, government batteries bombard the city while the populace huddles in cellars.

ANNIVERSARY OF LOCARNO

Associated Press

London, Oct. 16.—The Locarno Peace Treaty reached an unhappy eleventh birthday today.

Belgium dealt a blow to French and British hopes for a new Locarno security pledge by announcing, on the eve of the anniversary, it would adopt its pre-war policy of strict isolation.

King Leopold on Wednesday told the Belgian cabinet the nation should refrain from any collective security scheme and should reorganize its army only with the view of protecting Belgium from invaders.

Germany stood adamant after repudiating the Locarno Pact by sending troops marching into the demilitarized Rhineland zone last spring. Italy demanded clarification of its Mediterranean position after the conquest of Ethiopia.

Concerted action by Great Britain, France and Belgium to hasten new Locarno conversations among the five powers appeared to observers to be making tortuous and slow progress.

Of the three men who shaped the pact, Gustav Streseman of Germany and Aristide Briand of France, are dead. Sir Austen Chamberlain of Great Britain is in retirement.

Little Entente Agrees to Hungary Rearming

Associated Press

Rome, Oct. 16.—The Little Entente states yesterday informed Italy, through diplomatic channels, they would not object to reasonable rearmament by Hungary—but on a condition.

The condition was that Hungary be willing to collaborate with them in the Danubian basin, leaving aside at least for the moment her claims for territorial revision.

Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Jugoslavia are the Little Entente states.

Tarzan And the Leopard Men

Tarzan, to whom the jungle was an open book, had no difficulty in following the trail that led toward the secret domain of his enemies, but meanwhile the war party of steel-taloned Leopard Men, filled with a fanatic zeal marched swiftly to encounter him. . . .

. . . Between these two powerful converging forces, two poorly-clad white men sat before a tattered tent in a small camp. "Old Timer," the younger sighed, "I'm sick of this jungle!" "Well, Kid, why don't you go home to the States?" the other suggested.

But immediately, Old Timer hastened to apologize. Since they had teamed up as traders a year ago, each had refrained from probing the other's past. They knew only that each had come out to Africa to forget some injury suffered at the hands of a woman.

But it seemed now that their memories, both bitter and sweet, were soon to be merged into the oblivion of death, for as The Kid and Old Timer talked, cruel, blood-eager eyes looked out upon them—human eyes surmounted by the hideous heads of leopards!

Wives Should Study Husbands

Dorothy Dix

Says Man Is Creature Of Many Complexes

WIVES ARE ALWAYS COMPLAINING that their husbands do not understand them, but apparently it never enters their permanently waved heads that they understand their husbands just as little as their husbands understand them. Many a woman is married to a man for forty years without ever really getting acquainted with him or having the slightest idea of what makes him act the way he does, or being able to guess which way the cat will jump under certain conditions.

This is a pity because her inability to see into her husband's heart and mind and to interpret his motives not only causes many wives great unhappiness but also is a source of continual bickering and prevents them from being able to "manage" their husbands. For how can you work such a complicated piece of human machinery as a husband if you have not even a diagram of the way it is constructed or any inkling of what motivates it?

Of course, now and then we do find an astute woman who has thought it just as much worth while to try to solve her husband's peculiarities as she would a crossword puzzle, and then we see a marriage that is a success and an inspiring picture of domestic bliss. For the woman who has studied her husband and got his numbers knows all the answers to the riddle to which she is married and how to play upon his vanities and weaknesses, his sympathies and tendernesses, as upon a harp with a thousand strings.

If women understood their husbands they would save themselves a lot of grief by not taking them too seriously and thinking there was some dark and sinister motive behind everything husbands did and said. They would know that men belong to the impulsive sex that acts upon impulse and never means more than a tenth of what it says and half of what it does.

It is positively ghastly to contemplate the sufferings women endure just because they have not had the intelligence to study their husbands enough to find out the manner of men to whom they are married. There are millions of wives whose hearts are broken by what they think is their husband's indifferences to them. They think their husbands have ceased to love them because they do not pour out upon them passionate vows of devotion and tell them how wonderful and beautiful they are when all that is the matter with the poor men is that they are dumb love makers. They are saying it with beefsteaks instead of orchids and their wives haven't sense enough to understand them.

If wives understood their husbands better they would not get their feelings hurt so badly every time husbands came home grouchy and grumpy and kicked Fido and spanked the baby and grunted by way of answer when he was spoken to. Instead of dissolving into tears or making a snappy comeback about what they thought of a man who acted like a brute at home, they would hurry up the dinner and leave the poor badgered soul in peace, until he was fed and rested and his taut nerves had relaxed.

They would know that there was nothing personal in his attitude and his conduct was no indication that he did not adore his wife and children. It was just the reaction from a day of toil and anxiety that had taxed him to the limit, and home was just a safety valve where he could blow off all the irritability he dared not show his boss, or his customers and clients.

If wives understood their husbands they would know that no matter how big and strong and successful they are, they all crave love and tenderness and appreciation. They all want some woman to baby them and talk nonsense to them and tell them that they are the "boofest fing on earth, and mother's tootsy-wootsy." Ninety-nine per cent of the husbands who go astray never start to wandering until their wives begin calling them Papa and giving all of their petting to the baby.

If women would only study their husbands they would find out such a lot of things that would make life easier for them, and keep them out of the divorce court. They would learn that every man has the head-of-the-house complex and that if a wife will just let him crow a little he will let her rule the roost. That when he complains about her extravagance he generally only wants her to make a fuss over what he gives her and to tell him how lucky she feels to have such a good provider for a husband.

And if she will only laugh off her husband's faults instead of lecturing him about them, he will be eternally grateful to her. Most of all, she will find out that no man ever really grows up. Somewhere in him still lives the little boy who is bound to play hookey now and then and who wants his wife to deal with him as his mother did when he was naughty—spank him and forgive him, kiss him and forget it. Oh, believe me, every woman could study her husband with profit.

Uncle Wiggily In the Tall Grass

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily wasn't at all afraid. You might think he would have been with the Three Bad Chaps out in the tall grass waiting to chase the golf balls he was knocking for practice.

"But I wasn't frightened in the least," Mr. Longears said afterward to his wife and Nurse Jane as he told them about the fun. For it was fun, as you shall hear.

"Gracious goodness!" squeaked Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper. "If it had been me I would have had a conniption fit in my tail!"

"Are you sure you are all right to knock golf balls for those Bad Chaps to chase?" asked the alligator gentleman who kept a hot carrot and cold lemonade stand near the field where the golf ball knocking was done.

"That's yours to chase," said the Fox to the Bob Cat.

BAD CHAP COMPLAINS

"Seems to me I'm chasing them all," mewed the Bad Chap with the silly little tail no larger than a baby's thumb. "I chased the last one. It's time you chaps did some running."

"Each one must chase the balls that Uncle Wiggily knocks nearest him," said the Fox. "That's only fair."

Instead of taking each ball back to the tee after it had been knocked, the Bad Chaps were saving them in piles near where they stood in the grass.

"After Uncle Wiggily knocks the last ball," the alligator gentleman had said, "you Bad Chaps may bring to him those you have chased and we'll start all over again."

So that's the way the game was being played until, after the Fox came back with the far-off ball he had chased, the Wolf said:

"I'm getting tired of this. It's time we had some nibbles."

"All right," agreed the Fox. "The next ball that's knocked we'll pretend is lost in the high grass. We'll call Uncle Wiggily to come out and help look for it. And when he does——"

"Ha! Ha! I know what will happen!" snickered the Bob Cat.

IN THE HIGH GRASS

"Let the Bob Cat look," said the alligator.

"I can't find it, either," said the Bob Cat.

"Let the Wolf look for it, then," said the alligator.

"I can't find it, either," said that Bad Chap. Then all three Bad Chaps looked at one another and laughed. And the Fox called:

"Maybe Uncle Wiggily will come out here and help look for the lost ball. We can't find it. The grass is too high and tall."

So he started for the tall grass where the Bad Chaps were. And what happened after that you shall hear in the next story. It will be about Uncle Wiggily's three shots. And it would be very polite if you will help the foot of the stairs to get to the head to play tag with the cabbage.

HOROSCOPE

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1936

Benefic aspects rule powerfully today. It should be fortunate for many dwellers on the planet Earth. According to astrology plans should be perfected, especially those concerned with engineering, military training and naval expansion.

This is read as a most fortunate sway for women, who should turn attention to serious matters, notably those connected with human welfare. The coming winter is to bring heavy duties to all who administer charitable or philanthropic affairs.

Weddings today are subject to good planetary influences. Scientific ideas will be applied to marriage and fewer haphazard unions will occur in 1937, it is forecast.

Girls today are under the most favorable direction of the stars. College students and those engaged in business should benefit as the month draws to a close.

Entertaining should be lucky today, when distinguished visitors to the United States are to bring messages of great moment.

Washington, D.C., now comes under a configuration that presages within a few weeks many changes in the personnel of government departments, especially where labor interests are involved.

Women in certain public offices are to be superseded by men, but many girls of thorough technical training will be employed. Civil service is to be extended, although it will be the subject of widespread discussion.

Today the stars seem to promise happy results for women who wear new attire. The morning is an auspicious time for shopping and the afternoon most promising for those who entertain friends.

Occultists have often mentioned the fact that fashions have a peculiar significance in relation to coming events. Military modes will be popular in the coming winter, when the higher cost of clothing will disturb many families.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of unusual good fortune. Success and popularity are indicated for both men and women.

Children born on this day probably will be inclined to be reserved. Many subjects of this sign have artistic talents that may be expressed in diplomacy or statesmanship.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Childe Hassam, artist, 1859, and Eric Pope, illustrator, 1879.

BIG PLANES FOR PACIFIC

New Giants, Now Being Planned, Will Be Able to Carry 40 Passengers

Honolulu, Oct. 16.—Giant forty-ton seaplanes with space for forty sleeping passengers will be flying the Pan-American Airways trans-Pacific routes within about two years, said the company's president, Juan Trippe, yesterday.

Trippe, who arrived on the Philippine Clipper from Alameda, Cal., said engineering contracts had been let for six new clippers, but declined to disclose details of their construction.

Other sources, however, said the planes would weigh 82,000 pounds, have a wingspread of about 153 feet and have close to 200 miles an hour cruising speed. The planes will be almost twice as large as the present clippers.

They will carry, it was said, forty to forty-five passengers between California and Hawaii, and sixty on shorter flights westward to Manila.

Whaler Bound For Antarctic

St. John's, Nfld., Oct. 16.—The steamship Salvestria, 11,000 - ton floating whale factory, paused here yesterday to take ten men on her annual trip to the Antarctic.

Bound for her home port of Leith, Scotland, the whaler is equipped to obtain oil from the carcass as soon as the whale is caught and will hunt the huge sea mammals off South Georgia. Last year she secured 150,000 barrels of whale oil. The modern whaler carried a crew of 300 men.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Relieved.

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way That Calls for No Ugly Trumpets, Phones Or Other Instruments

To have catarrhal deafness is very annoying and embarrassing. People who are deaf in this way are generally mighty sensitive on this subject. And yet many catarrhal deaf folks carry around instruments that call attention to their infirmity. Therefore people who are hard of hearing, who suffer from head noises or who are actually deaf from catarrhal trouble, will be glad to know of a simple treatment that can be easily made up at home for a few cents cost that is really quite efficient in relieving the disagreeable deafness and head noises caused by catarrh.

From any druggist get one ounce of Parmint (double Strength). Take this home and put it into a simple syrup made of ½ pint of hot water and a little ordinary sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This treatment should by tonic action reduce the inflammation in the middle ear, that a catarrhal condition would be likely to cause, and with the inflammation gone the distressing head noises, headaches, cloudy thinking and that dull feeling in the ears should gradually disappear. Anyone who suffers from catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises should give Parmint a trial. It is pleasant to take and is quite inexpensive.

OCEAN HOP IS PLANNED

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Staff Writer

New York, Oct. 16.—The flying freighters, Clyde Pangborn and Marion Grevenberg, will be lugging their scarlet bi-motored plane to the Floyd Bennett Field within a day or so for final load tests before the most casual of all trans-Atlantic airplane flights.

Without any more fuss than would be expected from the grocery man delivering a bag of provisions to Mrs. Jones across town, the ocean-flying veteran and his co-pilot, Grevenberg, with the radio and navigating assistance of Reeder Nichols, plan to hop from Old Orchard, Maine, October 23, for London.

It is scheduled as the first of the strictly business trans-Atlantic hops, a job-of-work flight. The two pilots, trained in the same army school in 1917, pals ever since, have agreed merely to deliver to foreign backers one of the new type planes.

British interests, already "tooled up" for manufacture, will go over the completed plane carefully, then probably return it to the aviators for a European pleasure tour, and possibly a return to the United States by the South Atlantic route.

This is one flight, the pilots insist, from which the hysterics of ocean spanning will be extracted like a tooth from an aching jaw. No one is fussing about glory. No one is trying to put on a spectacle. They plan to gas up and go.

All they ask is a 500-foot ceiling at London. They plan to fly on schedule, good weather or bad, confident that no conditions ahead will be worse than others they have conquered, certain of their plane with its 4,000-mile radius and radical two-motored design.

The plane is the first of its kind, designed so that the fuselage, like the wings, is part of the lifting surface. The two motors, close together in front, develop 1,350 horsepower, give the ship a cruising speed of 190 miles an hour.

SWALLOWS TEETH

New York, Oct. 16.—Fritz Marquardt, the ship steward whose teeth caused two trans-Atlantic liners to "heave to" in mid-Atlantic, came home yesterday and went to a hospital to have a bridge and three false teeth removed from his stomach.

Marquardt swallowed the bridge as he jumped out of his berth aboard the liner Berlin Tuesday. He was transferred by lifeboat to the Europa and returned here to save him two days at sea.

TO CONSERVE RIGHT WHALES

Associated Press

Washington, Oct. 16.—Eskimos wielding their home-made harpoons today were virtually the only people in the world legally authorized to kill a right whale.

Slaughter of fourteen varieties of the huge mammals was forbidden to United States seamen by a new set of United States Commerce Department regulations, issued under a Geneva treaty of 1931. Twenty-six nations already have signed the pact for protecting types of whales threatened with extinction.

Because whale blubber is a favorite item on Arctic menus, the rules will not apply to Eskimos hunting with their own boats and weapons—which aren't expected to bother the whales much, anyhow.

The new regulations are primarily intended to protect the right whale, an amiable creature with a mouthful of thin, elastic sheets called whalebone. These teeth would hardly harm a minnow, and are good for two things:

1. Straining small shellfish into the beast's gullet.

2. Bracing ladies' corsets.

Ship Sinks But Crew Rescued

Vancouver Shipping

Vancouver, Oct. 16.—The new Norwegian tanker Leiv Erickson, due here late in November or early in December, will load 14,000 tons of wheat, nearly 600,000 bushels, grain exporters announced yesterday at the Vancouver Merchants' Exchange.

This cargo, they said, will be the largest single cargo of wheat ever shipped from any ocean port in the world. It will be consigned to United Kingdom or the continent.

The Norwegian Ms. Slemmestad was here yesterday to Dingwall, Cotts & Co. to load for South Africa.

The vessel's No. 2 hold, 160 feet long and eighteen feet high, with a beam width of fifty feet, when not carrying cargo, is used as a practice field by her football team, said to be very efficient, defeating all opposition in a recent stay at the port of Calcutta.

Grain exporters yesterday reported 100,000 tons of grain space booked during the past two weeks for United Kingdom loading between now and February at the rate of 25s. The rate on one loading was given at 27s., while last year at this time the rate was 19s. Continental rates are at 23s.

TWO RESCUED JUST IN TIME

Fishpacker Sinks Near Comox and Two Men Saved By Schooner

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Oct. 16.—R. O. Cole and his brother, D. R. Cole, were rescued by Captain Ralph Grosvold of the Seattle schooner Blue Fox as their vessel, the Irma J. Sank off Cape Lazo, near Comox, Vancouver Island, late Wednesday, according to a belated report made to British Columbia Police here today.

They told police they were returning to Vancouver with their boat, a fifty-five-foot fishpacker, loaded with fish when it sprung a leak after striking some object in the water.

The vessel began to sing rapidly, they said, and in a last desperate effort to attract attention they poured gasoline over the winch and set it afire.

Captain Grosvold saw the blaze through the heavy mist and speeded to the scene, arriving in time to remove the two men just before their boat sank in 300 feet of water.

The brothers were taken to Deep Bay by the Blue Fox, enroute to Seattle from the Aleutian Islands, and later proceeded here.

The Irma J. was registered in Vancouver.

Private funeral services for Dr. Babcock were held in Victoria Wednesday. He died there on Monday from a heart ailment.

Yesterday his body was brought to Vancouver for cremation.

Dr. Babcock was a former deputy commissioner of fisheries for British Columbia and chairman of the international halibut commission.

ALASKA MAIL BOAT WRECKED

Associated Press

Ketchikan, Alaska, Oct. 16.—The fifty-three-ton mail-carrying motorship Chacon of Ketchikan, lay on the rock-infested bottom of Zimovia Strait today, while the fourteen persons who were aboard it when the vessel struck an unchartered rock were safe here.

Capt. Phillip Falconer said his ship lodged on the rock Wednesday night and started to fill. The eight passengers and crew of six took to lifeboats. An unidentified troller took the fourteen persons aboard, saving them from a night on the open sea.

LUMBER TRADE STILL ACTIVE

Will Continue So All Month Unless Waterfront Troubles Interfere

Associated Press

Seattle, Oct. 16.—The West Coast Lumbermen's Association said today lumber shipments would "continue active throughout the month" if there were assurances that water shipment would not stop through a threatened maritime strike on the Pacific Coast.

The association reported buying in the California market was stimulated during the week ending October 10 as a result of the fifteen-day waterfront truce, which became effective October 1.

Another truce, effective yesterday, was extended to October 26 with the threat by maritime unions that a strike would start October 28, unless differences between the unions and waterfront employers are not settled by that time.

A total of 202 down and operating mills in Washington and Oregon, during the week ending October 10, produced 115,408,363 board feet of lumber, an increase of 6,025,843 over the previous week.

Shipments were 11,183,164 board feet, about 11,000,000 under the previous week, and new business was 123,094,841 feet, up about 10,000,000. The unfilled order file stood at 404,235,565 feet, compared with 393,680,530 feet the week before.

About half of the lumber produced in the two states is shipped by water. The association said that for the past eight weeks, "due largely to the complicated and unsettled marine situation, the volume of new business taken by the west coast lumber industry has been lacking in steadiness. Lumbermen believe business taken this fall would have come in greater volume and more regularly, but for the constant threat for the past sixty days of a marine shutdown.

"Production and shipments are considered about normal, and in line with the average volume of new business taken in the past thirty days."

Deprive Seamen Of Rum Rations

Sailors of H.M.S. Guardian Also Lose Their Daily Leisure for Tardiness

London, Oct. 16.—Twenty members of the crew of H.M.S. Guardian, a net-layer, were deprived of their daily ration of rum for three months today because they were tardy about falling in at daylight on a chilly morning recently.

They also were denied their usual three hours of leisure daily for the same period.
